Police Warn Against Violations of Traffic Laws and Caution Drivers To Be Careful.

Fifteen persons were injured Tuesday, none seriously, in a series of automobile accidents, according to reports on file at police headquarters.

The injured are: Monroe Ashe, of East Lake; R. E. Collins, of 41 North Olympian circle; P. L. Bardin, of 139 Gordon street; C. E. Smith, of 55 Bradley street; C. E. Smith, of 157 Stewart avenue; Curtis Warren, of Brookhaven; J. W. Fincher, of 137 Trinity; and an unidentified white man; T. A. Holland, of 450 Luckie street; John Mitchell, of 409 North Lowe; of 1-B Hunnicutt street; and Ruth Owen, of 1 Bishop street, and J. J. Parks.

Monroe Ashe late Tuesday afternoon was badly bruised when knocked from the bicycle on which he was riding in Trinity avenue, near Capitol avenue, by an automobile driven by R. H. Ewing, of 18 Mitchell street, police reported.

According to Call Officers Williams and Wright, who investigated, Ewing was going east in Trinity avenue, closely behind a car driven by G. F. Waldrop, of 34 Flora avenue, and in attempting to pass Waldrop struck Ashe. Cases of speeding was docketed against both drivers.

R. E. Collins, was badly bruised and shaken up as the result of an automobile collision at the intersection of Stewart avenue and Whitehall street, when a heavy truck driven by J. T. Coker, crashed into Collins' machine, police stated.

Police Docket Cases.
A case of reckless driving was docketed against Coker by Patrolman R. G. Pollard. The Collins car was slightly damaged.

P. L. Bardin, and J. B. Booth, received bruises and lacerations about the body Tuesday afternoon as the result of an automobile collision at the corner of Whitehall street and Whitehall terrace.

A case of reckless driving was made against both men by Call Officers Bowman and Wood.

Curtis Warren, 19, received a fractured hip late Tuesday afternoon when the automobile jack which he was using in hoisting a wheel of his car slipped, jerking him against the car. He was carried to Grady hospital.

T. A. Holland, 21, of 450 Luckie street; an unidentified white man; and two negroes, Bill Lowe and Maggie Lowe, of 1-B Hunnicutt street, received bruises and lacerations about the body, early Tuesday night when an automobile which Holland was driving became unmanageable and crashed through a fence at 8 Hunnicutt street, police records show.

The two negroes were one the side walk and were knocked down by the car.

After Crash

Two C. E. Smiths Get Acquainted When Their Autos Collide.

Apparently it was inevitable with Smiths fairly cluttering up the pages of the city directory and walking and riding about in such numbers that if one stopped at a downtown corner and suddenly shouted "Smith!" at the top of his voice, he would cause a traffic jam.

A pair of them came together with a shock Tuesday at the intersection of Forsyth and Hunter streets, and the collision produced an added trimming in that it was participated in by C. E. Smith, of 56 Bradley avenue, and C. E. Smith, of 157 Stewart avenue.

According to Patrolman Morgan, who investigated the accident, Smith of Bradley avenue, was driving a light touring car east in Hunter street, while Smith of Stewart avenue was going south in Hunter street, driving a truck.

The Smiths jumped from their conveyances.

"My name's Smith," said No. 1.

"So's mine," said the other. "C. E. are my initials."

"Funny, my initials are C. E., too."

And thus having identified themselves as Smith, C. E. Smiths at that, each agreed nobody was to blame. Patrolman Morgan agreed and everyone was happy.

A report to police said each Smith took away about the same number of minor cuts and bruises to remind of the acquaintance.

Alibi Is Sought
By Ora Whittle
In Langston Case

Trial at Fayetteville Moves Rapidly and Indications Point to Jury Receiving Case Today.

CURIOUS THROG
CROWDS COURT

Two Sheriffs Testify That Dutton Admitted Part in Killing of Rural Mail Carrier.

BY H. C. HAMILTON, Staff Correspondent.
Fayetteville, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—An alibi to show that he couldn't possibly have been present when James P. Langston, rural mail carrier, was crushed to death with an axe near this town in 1922, was the defense offered today in the trial of Ora Whittle, one of the three men indicted on charges of having slain Langston, and perhaps before Wednesday night he may know what the jury thinks of it. Court did not recess until 6 o'clock, but by that time most of the defense witnesses had mounted the stand, attempted to impeach the testimony of state witnesses, and had tried to convince the jury that Ora Whittle was not the man responsible for Langston's murder.

All morning long and part of the afternoon the defendant had heard state witnesses testify to facts which seemed to implicate him with the crime. Two sheriffs—one from Coweta county and one from Campbell county, testified that Oscar Dutton, another of those charged with the brutal murder—confessed freely that he was one of the slayers and that Whittle and John Walker were his companions. This was to tear down Dutton's assertion on the stand that he had signed an affidavit all right, but that he had been forced to.

State Rests.
The state rested its case at 2 o'clock and then came the opportunity of the defense, and it all concerned the characters of persons who had testified against Whittle, and the alibi.

It has been Whittle's contention that he was in College Park at the time the state contends he was hacking Langston to death. Colonel L. C. Dixon, an attorney of Fayetteville, was the first to back up this statement. He said he had seen Whittle in College Park about 11 o'clock on the day Langston was slain.

C. C. Travis, also of College Park, said he saw Colonel Dixon and Whittle in conversation in College Park at 11 o'clock.

Luther McDonald, who operates a market in College Park, swore he saw Whittle at College Park between 11 and 12 o'clock.

Grady Alexander went even farther and said he saw Whittle in College Park between 9 and 11 o'clock, and this was particularly to the point, for the state contended Langston was killed between 10 and 11 o'clock.

Walker Jackson, a farmer who lives in the upper part of Fayette county, testified he saw Whittle driving a wagon from College Park in the afternoon of the day Langston was slain.

Mrs. H. Henson, who lives four or five miles from the scene of the crime, also testified to Whittle's appearance from the direction of College Park in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Oglesby declared Dutton, who is alleged to have confessed to the crime, spent the day at their home and could not have been implicated. They live 10 or 15 miles from where Langston was murdered.

The state has contended that the time of the crime was between 10 and 11 o'clock because his route schedule

ITALY AND U. S.

HALT DEBT PLAN

Negotiations End Abruptly While Rome Official Returns Home To Collect Data on Finances.

Washington, June 30.—Negotiations for the funding of Italy's war debt to the United States came to a sudden although temporary halt after two conferences today and no further conversations on the subject are expected until after August 1.

The delay, it was announced, arose from a desire of the Italian commissioners to obtain additional data from Rome relating to Italy's capacity to pay.

Mario Alberti, the technical member of the mission, will leave immediately for Italy to supervise preparation for the documents needed.

Task To Be Lengthy.
It became increasingly evident as a result of today's conference between the American debt commission members and the Italians that Italy will delay making a concrete proposal until her representatives here have detailed every phase of Italy's economic, financial and monetary situation.

Some progress has been made in that direction at the sessions last

SANITATION HIT
BY COUNCILMAN
IN LITELY TILT

Many Cafes and Dairies Are Branded as "Unclean and Filthy" by Councilman Saunders.

CHARGES DENIED
BY HEALTH OFFICER

Sanitary Committee Head Declares He Will Clean Up City or Resign Post, in Spirited Statement.

Branding a score of well-known Atlanta restaurants, clubs and dairies as unclean and insanitary, Councilman W. E. Saunders, chairman of the sanitary committee of city council, Tuesday brought definite charges before that committee that milk and dairy inspectors have been lax in enforcing the law.

"I will either straighten out sanitary conditions in this town or resign as chairman of the sanitary committee," he declared, adding, "and I don't think I'll have to resign."

On the other hand, Dr. John P. Kennedy, city health officer, made a sweeping denial of all charges and made counter charges that the dairies inspected by Mr. Saunders and Henry F. Brannan, state milk inspector, were "hand-picked," as Mr. Brannan knew that the dairies visited were among the worst furnishing milk to Atlantans and did not take Mr. Saunders to any of the better type.

Raps State Inspector.
Dr. Kennedy also said: "Mr. Brannan's chief business is lobbying, and he has little time to devote to inspection of milk."

No definite action was taken by the committee but Councilman Saunders stated his intention of continuing the probe and submitting a further report at the committee's next meeting, set for July 14.

Replying to a statement issued Monday by Alderman W. B. Duvall, who headed the sanitary committee last year, Mr. Saunders challenged the alderman from the first ward to appoint a committee of doctors, and offered to resign his position if he does not convince the committee that insanitary conditions prevail at many establishments.

Mr. Saunders, after turning the chair over to Councilman C. A. Jenkins, told the committee an inspection trip made last week by himself and Mr. Brannan. Of six dairies inspected, he said, two were found in fair condition, while conditions on the other four were "very insanitary."

Of approximately 20 dairies in the city, he charged that only one had a health certificate and that only two of the dairies had been visited by city inspectors during the past three months.

TH Enlivens Meet.
The charge brought on one of the tiffs between the dairies and Dr. Kennedy, which enlivened the entire session.

"You and Mr. Brannan visited dairies that you knew were among the cheapest class furnishing milk here, didn't you?" Dr. Kennedy asked.

Mr. Saunders, however, claimed that it was himself, and not Mr. Brannan, who suggested the route to be taken and the establishments to be visited.

Mr. Brannan had nothing to do with selecting the dairies," Mr. Saunders said, "but simply asked me where I wanted to go and I chose the route I did because my time was limited and the dairies reached the dairies we inspected."

Dr. Kennedy pointed out that only two dairy inspectors have automobiles and that it is practically impossible for them to visit all of the 200 dairies.

SEAT IN CONGRESS WON BY WOMAN

Mrs. Edith Rogers Named To Succeed Husband, Overwhelmingly Defeating Eugene Foss.

Lowell, Mass., June 30.—(AP)—The voters of the fifth congressional district, at a special election held today, overwhelmingly elected Mrs. Edith Rogers (republican) to represent them in congress. Mrs. Rogers is the wife of the late congressman from the district, John Jacob Rogers, who died last March, and she will be the first woman from New England to sit in congress.

Mrs. Rogers' margin over Eugene N. Foss (democrat), former governor of the state was in excess of 24 to 1. Her total vote was 23,614, as against Foss' 9,251. There are 32 towns and cities in the district.

In the rural districts she rolled up impressive majorities, notwithstanding the fact that she was recorded. She readily carried the democratic cities of Lowell and Woburn by over two to one, although it was in these places that Foss made his best showing. In Lowell about half the registered voters turned out.

Foss did not carry a single town in the district.

EXCESSIVE HEAT

ATLANTA REPORT

First Six Months of Year Show Excess of Heat and Dearth of Rain-fall.

CLOUDS TODAY TO RELIEVE HEAT.

Cloudy weather accompanied by slight relief from heat is promised Atlanta today by A. H. Scott, acting head of the local weather bureau. Northeastern winds will prevail, which usually tend to keep the mercury at a reasonable figure, according to Mr. Scott.

The temperature Tuesday ranged from 70 degrees in the morning to 89 at noon and went to 92 degrees in the afternoon. This represents no appreciable change from that of the last few days.

Showers were reported from various parts of the state Tuesday afternoon.

Weather conditions in Atlanta for the first half of the year have been greatly at variance with the normal state of affairs, according to the report given out Tuesday by A. H. Scott, acting chief of the local weather bureau. The total amount of rainfall since January 1 has been 21.08 inches, which is a deficiency of 5.11 inches from the normal amount for the first six months of the year. The temperature for the same period has been 2.8 degrees a day above the usual average for that time.

April showed a daily temperature of 3.4 degrees above normal and on the 24th the highest point ever recorded at the local bureau for this month was reached, when the mercury climbed to 93 degrees. May was the only month in which the temperature record was below the normal figure. In June up to Tuesday, June 30, the daily average was 4 degrees above normal and on the 22d the high-point record of the summer was reached when a reading of 97 degrees was recorded, according to weather bureau figures.

January has a mean temperature of 43.1 degrees and this year the daily average was 5 degrees above this figure. The lowest point reached was 26. The rainfall during this month, however, was exceptionally heavy, the total amount being 11.08 inches. This is more than double the average of 5.31 and the only time that the normal figure has been exceeded so far this year.

The temperature in February was 5.8 degrees a day above the usual figure, but the rainfall showed a deficiency of 2.93 inches below the normal amount of 4.05 inches for this month. The lowest temperature recorded was 20 degrees.

Although the average temperature for March was 33 degrees above the normal figure, this month produced some of the coldest weather of the year when a temperature of 18 degrees was recorded.

Slayer of Pal In Jail Tries Suicide by Fire

Walter Krauser Is Seriously Burned Before Flames Are Extinguished.

Chicago, June 30.—(AP)—Walter Krauser, charged with the murder in the county jail of Bernard Grant, an accomplice in the murder of a patrolman, for which he is awaiting a second trial, attempted to kill himself here this afternoon by setting fire to his clothing. He was seriously burned before prisoners and guards succeeded in smothering the flames.

Earlier in the day a pocket knife had been found in Krauser's cell, it was reported. It was with a pocket knife that he said he had found that he stabbed Grant while the two were in the visitors' room to meet relatives.

Krauser set fire to his clothes and to his mattress, then lay down on the mattress while the flames flicked about him and guards tried frantically to open his cell door. Finally the cell was flooded with water and the flames extinguished.

Krauser was taken to the jail hospital, where his condition is considered serious. He moaned repeatedly, "My enemies did it."

Warden Westbrook said he believed Krauser is insane. Krauser and Grant were both found guilty and sentenced to death for the murder of Policeman Ralph Saunders during the holdup of a tea store two years ago.

Grant, a youth of 19, was refused a new trial, but Krauser obtained a new trial. Grant, however, succeeded in obtaining several reprieves. A few days after Grant's death Krauser was indicted for this slaying and is now awaiting trial on two charges of murder.

Washington Cathedral Plans
New College for Preachers

Washington, June 30.—(AP)—The establishment of a college of preachers to train ministers particularly to win to the church those known to be outside of and possibly alienated from it, is contemplated by the Washington Cathedral.

Tentative plans for the college made public in a statement today by the national cathedral foundation provide that the permanent director of the proposed college be an officer of the cathedral who is to be assisted "by men called in for stated periods of service."

The college also is expected to furnish aid to the clergy of the Protestant Episcopal church in the development of "preaching power in their appointed fields."

The college is to be founded, the statement said, "in an intensive effort to win, through a revival of prophetic preaching, thousands of people who are now outside the Christian church."

Establishment of permanent quarters is contemplated.

"As soon as clergymen complete their training at the college," the statement added, "the cathedral plans to arrange, through cooperation with local churches and other agencies, suitable opportunities for them to present to masses of Americans, outside rather than inside the church, the fundamental principles of Christianity. Mass meetings and conferences, gatherings of all sorts will be held, in theaters and halls, in the great university stadia, in the highways and byways of great cities—everywhere and anywhere that men and women can be assembled to listen to a strong appeal for Christ and his religion."

The college is being started under the personal supervision of the Right Rev. Philip M. Rhinelander, D. D., Ltd. D. C. L., former bishop of Pennsylvania and now canon of the Washington cathedral. He is being assisted by Bishop Freeman, Canon Anson Phelps Stokes, former secretary of Yale university, and Canon Henry Lubek, all of whom have had wide experience in the preaching field."

BILL TO ABOLISH
HIGHWAY BOARD
READ IN HOUSE

Scheduled Fight on Rules Fails To Materialize; Discussion by Solons Set for Today.

Featured by the introduction of a number of new bills of interest, notably the bill of Representative Beck, of Carroll, which would abolish the state highway board, place road matters under one commissioner and leave the actual building and maintenance of roads to the counties, the house and senate held the shortest sessions of the present assembly on Tuesday, when the senate adjourned only 13 minutes after convening and the house wound up its business for the day in 50 minutes.

The scheduled debate on proposed amendments to the house rules did not develop Tuesday, owing to the fact that the printed copies of the suggested changes will not reach the members' desks before today. They had been expected Monday morning.

Representative Dykes, of Dooly, who is slated for the vice chairmanship of the rules committee, moved that the discussions of these changes be postponed to Wednesday, because of the delay in printing, expressing his desire that every member might have opportunity to study them before voting.

After introduction of 48 new bills, the house adjourned to convene again this morning at 11 o'clock, one hour later than the usual hour.

Bills proposing a complete reorganization of the state highway department, along lines which, it is understood, have already gained the support of considerable blocs in both houses, will be introduced today, according to rumors here Tuesday afternoon. These bills call for a program of road building on a "pay-as-you-go" plan, instead of through the issuance of bonds, and supporters claim that they will allow for as quick construction of a complete hard-surfaced state highway system as would be possible with the proceeds of a bond issue of any other method.

State Auditor Sam J. Slate stated.

24 Cocktails and Five Bottles of Whisky Served 17 Police Officers.

Washington, June 30.—(AP)—Four employees of the Mayflower, Washington's newest fashionable hotel were arrested today under the prohibition law as a sequel to an alleged "pre-Volstead" banquet June 17 attended by 17 government agents.

Jules Venice, maitre d'hôtel; Renato Belli, assistant chef, and John Mendus, bell boy, charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, and Ralph E. Jones, a waiter, accused of illegal sale of liquor, were the men arrested.

United States Commissioner Turnage, before whom the men were taken late today, fixed bond for Venice and Belli at $5,000; for Jones, whom he characterized as "cool," at $1,000, and for Mendus at $1,500.

One of the agents, "Iron and steel man," registered at the hotel, suggested to Venice, like to have good guests, it was d'hôtel said right. The company was made up of 17 men and 17 women, and whisky was Testimony of Fletcher Expected To End Work of Attorneys for Former Prison Officials.

After L. J. Fletcher, one of the defendants in the Hayden-Fletcher bribery conspiracy case, finishes his testimony in his own defense today, the defendant's attorneys expect to rest their case, they announced after the session of the trial ended Tuesday afternoon and issued a blanket denial of all the charges of accepting money and presents for special privileges made by government witnesses in the case.

Fletcher's comprehensive and flat denial of all charges made against him and efforts of the defense attorneys to prove by former Warden Albert E. Sarasin and Lawrence Rishel, of Columbus, Ohio, his friend, that offers had been made to get light sentences for them in bribery conviction pending against them if they would come to Atlanta to testify against Fletcher.

Santa Barbara, Calif., June 30.—(AP)—Some two million dollars in earthquake insurance was carried on the business district wrecked by the Monday earthquake, according to estimates by insurance brokers here.

Jewels and bonds valued at $150,000, property of Mrs. Charles E. Perkins, of Burlington, Iowa, earthquake victim, were found intact in ruins of the Arlington hotel.

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 30.—(AP)—The city of Santa Barbara yesterday the victim of one of the most disastrous earthquakes in Pacific coast history, tonight closed the biggest business day in its civic annals with the formulation of a program of reconstruction that foreshadowed a great rejuvenated community.

The rise of the sun was the signal for the stirring of a city spirit that, in its optimism, swept aside the picture of ruin in the business district and left in its place a vision of tremendous construction.

Facing an estimated loss of between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000, with possibly $2,000,000 of earthquake insurance, the banking, business, industrial and civic leaders launched a program of immediate building, based on a $20,000,000 loan and a $2,000,000 earthquake fund.

Ask $20,000,000 Loan.
Jumping into the financial breach, the banking chiefs broadcast to the clearing houses of the nation a request for the flotation of the $20,000,000 reconstruction loan through the Santa Barbara Clearing House association.

Simultaneously the business and civic leaders accepted the offers of San Francisco and Los Angeles to send their best engineering talent here immediately to direct the demolition of the antiquated, damaged buildings and to outline the plans of the new Santa Barbara.

The $20,000,000 earthquake aid fund, it was explained by the clearing house association, is to wipe out mortgages on the business section, thus paving the way for the utilization of the entire $20,000,000 loan for new buildings.

H. C. Cotton, Los Angeles banker, upon his arrival here tonight from Los Angeles announced that negotia-

CHAMBER BEGINS ROAD INFORMATION SERVICE

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce is now prepared to extend its service to tourists it was announced Tuesday by Miss Margaret Darrow, in charge of the newly-created road information bureau, which was opened Tuesday.

Accurate information regarding condition of roads in this and other states will be available to tourists who pass through Atlanta, it was said. Not only will a close check on Georgia roads be kept but the department will keep informed as to condition of roads in neighboring states, Miss Darrow said.

The bureau is on the second floor of the building and will be open on week days from 9 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

ATLANTA REALTY SHOWS BIG JUMP

Further evidence that Atlanta real estate is a sound and safe investment was revealed Tuesday when the Massell Realty company announced the sale of a parcel of land at West Peachtree and Pine streets at an increase of exactly 6,000 per cent in 72 years.

E. M. Gould, of New York city, and Charles H. Black, of Atlanta, paid $200,000 for the tract, which measured 100 by 190 feet.

The property was included in an acre tract which was sold November 3, 1853, by Alexander M. Luckie to Thomas S. Jones for $100. Tuesday one-third of the same plot brought $200,000. The same lot in 1853 would have brought about $33.33 1/3. These facts are revealed by records of the Atlanta Title and Trust company.

Records of the title company also show that after Mr. Jones bought the acre, he sold a major part of the strip to William L. Baldwin for $1,200 in 1860. In 1920 the acre was split into three parcels and was disposed of as follows:

William Candler bought the northeast corner, 50x150 feet, for $25,000. He also bought a lot, 50x50 feet, in the rear of the plot for $7,500, and later bought from John W. Grant the remainder of the parcel, 50x200 feet, for $20,000, or a total of $52,500 for the acre, which originally was sold for $100.

Mr. Candler in 1922 sold the property to the Callan Court company for $78,000, another big advance. Later

ATLANTA REALTY SHOWS BIG JUMP

Further evidence that Atlanta real estate is a sound and safe investment was revealed Tuesday when the Massell Realty company announced the sale of a parcel of land at West Peachtree and Pine streets at an increase of exactly 6,000 per cent in 72 years.

E. M. Gould, of New York city, and Charles H. Black, of Atlanta, paid $200,000 for the tract, which measured 100 by 190 feet.

The property was included in an acre tract which was sold November 3, 1853, by Alexander M. Luckie to Thomas S. Jones for $100. Tuesday one-third of the same plot brought $200,000. The same lot in 1853 would have brought about $33.33 1/3. These facts are revealed by records of the Atlanta Title and Trust company.

Records of the title company also show that after Mr. Jones bought the acre, he sold a major part of the strip to William L. Baldwin for $1,200 in 1860. In 1920 the acre was split into three parcels and was disposed of as follows:

William Candler bought the northeast corner, 50x150 feet, for $25,000. He also bought a lot, 50x50 feet, in the rear of the plot for $7,500, and later bought from John W. Grant the remainder of the parcel, 50x200 feet, for $20,000, or a total of $52,500 for the acre, which originally was sold for $100.

Mr. Candler in 1922 sold the property to the Callan Court company for $78,000, another big advance. Later 1880 1925 Anniversary Sale!

In July, 1880, forty-five years ago, when Atlanta had scarcely recovered from the devastations of war, when Stone Mountain was simply a big rock twenty miles away and a day's journey, when Five Points was little more than a crossing and the Kimball House was still young, an ambitious young man decided to start a store on Capitol avenue.

This young man was C. J. Kamper.

The store was started in a modest way, with a small stock and a big ideal. The stock was small from necessity but the ideal was big from the very nature of the man, which was to conduct a food store on a higher plane than had ever been done before, to give the people the very best obtainable in foods—quality first always—and to handle them in the cleanest and most sanitary manner and render as nearly as possible a perfect service.

From the modest start in 1880, forty-five years ago, Kamper's has grown to be the most complete pure food store in the entire south and one of the finest in the entire country, having within this time made several moves to larger and more commodious quarters, the last move being eleven years ago (July 1, 1914) when the present location at Peachtree and Linden was secured and the building especially arranged for the proper conduct of our business.

The ideals of the original store have never been changed although the business has doubled and trebled in size. Then as now, quality foods properly handled for the Kamper trade, and nothing else, has succeeded far beyond the expectations of his early career and thanks the people of Atlanta for their patronage which has made the success of the firm of Kamper possible during all these years.

$15,000,000 Bond Issue For Educational Program Urged in State Assembly

Suggestion Is Result of Survey Made by Special Committee Through Georgia Schools.

A state bond issue of from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 for a program of educational expansion in Georgia is to be sought in a campaign which will be launched within the immediate future by the members of both bodies of the general assembly of Georgia. Hearty approval of Governor Walker has been given the movement, and plans for the campaign are being formed in a series of conferences.

The proposed state bond issue is the result of the report and recommendations of the survey commission that made a comprehensive examination of needs of various state departments and institutions. It is said. The commission recommended increased appropriations for new buildings and maintenance at the higher educational institutions, and for the common school system urged a four-year building program involving expenditures totaling $5,000,000 beginning in 1928.

According to the plan, the common schools portion of the proposed bond issue will be distributed to counties on a 50-50 basis. The plan is to have the state put up half the funds necessary to build new school houses and provide modern facilities in counties which are unable to finance the complete building program, even through special school taxes.

A. & M. School Abolition.

Abolition of the twelve district agricultural and mechanical schools is recommended in the report of the survey commission just filed with Governor Walker. The report urges return of the property to the counties which donated the A. & M. school sites to the state, with a view to centralizing teaching of agriculture and mechanical arts in the state college of agriculture at Athens.

Features of the report are provisions for large increases in maintenance appropriations for state colleges, expenditures of over $1,000,000 for new buildings in 1926 and 1927, and a four-year building program running into many millions of dollars.

The recommendation of the committee is that a four-year building program be undertaken, with an expenditure of $500,000 per annum at the University of Georgia, $300,000 per year at the State College of Agriculture, $300,000 per year at Georgia Tech, $125,000 per year at the State College for Women in Milledgeville, $100,000 per year at the State Normal school in Athens and $75,000 per year for the State Women's college in Valdosta.

Centralization of higher education in fewer institutions, and control of all colleges and universities by one board, with safeguards on appointment of members so that alumni of no one institution may predominate on the board, is urged in the appropriation recommendations.

Many recommendations for appropriations for the institutions of the state are contained in the report.

Building programs for 1926 are urged for colleges, as follows:

At University of Georgia, physics building, $150,000; administration, commerce and journalism building, $120,000; both funds to be matched by an equal amount given by alumni; war memorial fund, $100,000; to complete Milledgeville, $100,000; add in 1927, $25,000 for a women's dormitory and $250,000 for a men's dormitory.

Appropriations for the higher institutions of education are recommended as follows:

Support and maintenance of University of Georgia, $275,000; repairs, etc., $30,000.

summer school, $40,000; support and maintenance of state college of agriculture, $150,000; extension work, $30,000; farm institutes, $2,500; to match Smith-Lever fund, $15,000; special maintenance fund, $25,000; support and maintenance of Georgia Tech, $275,000; State Normal school, $100,000; State College for Women, $125,000; State Industrial college, $100,000; medical college, $65,000; public health and hygiene department of medical college, $2,000; Georgia State Industrial college, Savannah, $17,500; heating plant, $12,500; new industrial college at Athens, $20,000; summer school, $2,500; vocational building equipment, $7,500; heating, $30,000; maintenance Forsyth A. and M. school $7,500.

Maintenance Funds.

The committee urges maintenance funds for 1926, for the following institutions:

State auditorium, $1,100,000; tuberculosis sanatorium, $60,000; school for the deaf, $82,000; academy for the blind, $45,000; department of public welfare, $27,500; training school for boys, $30,000; training school for girls, $42,700; training school for mental defectives, $30,000.

Four-year building programs are urged for the State Normal school at Athens, $100,000 a year; the State College for Women, $125,000 a year, and the State Women's college at Valdosta, $75,000 a year. In the State Normal school, recommendations are for $50,000 each for a gymnasium and dining hall in 1926, and $100,000 each for a recreation hall and dormitory in 1927. In the State College for Women, recommendations are for $200,000 in 1926 for an auditorium and classroom building, and $250,000 in 1927 for a heating plant and dormitory. In the State Women's college, recommendations are for $75,000 for an auditorium and classroom building in 1926, and $75,000 for a dormitory in 1927, with an additional $5,000 for the completion of Ashley hall during 1925.

Tech Program.

A four-year building program is also recommended for Georgia Tech, $300,000 a year, with the following appropriations for 1926: $300,000 for erection of an electrical engineering building and $250,000 for a dormitory building; and for 1927, $250,000 for an auditorium and $125,000 for additional shops.

Appropriations for 1926 for the college of agriculture are recommended as follows:

$50,000 for a heating plant, $25,000 to buy property adjoining for new boys' dormitory building, $75,000 to improve fire protection facilities, $75,000 to complete the veterinary building, and $100,000 for a women's dormitory.

For 1927, appropriations are recommended as follows:

$50,000 for a forestry building and $50,000 for a farmers' community home.

Building appropriations for these institutions in 1926 are recommended as follows:

Sanatorium, $150,000 for additions; tuberculosis sanatorium, $5,500; deaf school, $8,000; blind academy, $7,500; training school for boys, $15,000; training school for girls, $42,700; training school for mental defectives, $15,000; experiment station at Griffin $5,000; experiment station at Tifton $10,000.

SENATE DORMANT AWAITING REPORT

Probability that President J. Howard Ennis, of the state senate, will not announce his committees for this session until Monday or Tuesday, when the announcement of house committees is expected, will result in light sessions of the upper branch of the legislature the remainder of this week, in the opinion of senate leaders.

Introduction by Senator A. G. Foster, of the twenty-third district, in the senate of the "anti-pistol toting" bill, together with a bill to make an extra appropriation to the common school fund for equalizing educational opportunities for children in the counties, by Senator P. T. Knight, of the sixth, and a bill designed to bring out hidden properties for taxation, by Senator J. H. Parker, of the second, featured the very light session Friday.

Short Session.

The senate was in session only 13 minutes Tuesday, during which time 11 bills were introduced, almost a bill a minute. Senator S. C. Boykin, of the thirty-seventh, introduced a measure to require all marshals, policemen, and other officers to wear a badge designating his office in an open manner. This bill is in line, it is said, with an agitation started when prohibition officers are said to have held up cars on the road to search for liquor, without revealing their official capacity before the car was stopped. The driver not knowing whether they were officers or highwaymen.

In the bill by Senator Knight on the common school fund, it is provided that the state board of education shall consider the possible returns from taxation values for school purposes before the state to which local tax aid has been utilized, the educational needs and the local inequalities in the counties. No county shall share in the fund for less than a year unless it has at least 5 mills for local taxes for public schools for that year shall have been made, the bill states.

May 30 is designated as National Memorial day in Georgia in a bill introduced by Senators W. C. Hendrix, of the thirty-fifth, and Carl N. Guess, of the thirty-fourth. A bill introduced by Senator Boykin, of the thirty-seventh, is to amend the act creating a board of embalmers, to better provide for the protection of life and health, and prevent the spread of contagious diseases, by increasing embalmers' license fees from $5 to any amount up to $25.

Pickens Bill.

Permission to manufacture ethyl alcohol in Georgia from sawdust, wood shavings or other wood substance is sought in a bill introduced by Senator T. L. Pickens, of the fourth.

Senator L. O. Perkins, of the twenty-fourth, expects to introduce within the next few days an amendment to the penal code defining the acts constituting the offense of trespass, relating to tenants evicted under dispossessionary warrants. The bill proposes to prevent tenants from moving back into the house or dwelling from which they have been legally evicted under dispossessionary warrants, without first obtaining the consent of the landlord or his agent. As it is now, Senator Perkins said Tuesday, a tenant can wait until the "evicting" officer leaves and then move his goods back into the house.

Hubby Assailed By Young Wife In Divorce Suit

Charges that he repudiated his baby son and told his estranged wife of a few months to "choke or smother" the infant are made against William Fred Russell, 26-year-old carpenter, in a divorce action filed Tuesday by the estranged wife in Fulton superior court.

The wife, Mrs. Iris Russell, filed a petition asking a total divorce and temporary and permanent alimony for herself and their two-year-old son William Fred Russell, Jr.

Judge W. D. Ellis, of Fulton superior court, issued a writ ne-exeat to prevent the husband from leaving the state, as he is alleged to have threatened to do, and set July 11 as the date for a temporary hearing on the petition. Russell was placed under $200 bond pending the hearing.

The story as revealed in the suit filed by Mrs. Russell is as follows:

"We were married August 28, 1923, and separated December 31, 1923. After the separation, a baby boy, William Fred Russell, Jr., was born, and the father came to the hospital where I was and asked me to choke it to death or smother it. He said no one would ever know.

"When I refused to do this he became angry and said the child can call you mamma, but it can never call me papa."

All this took place about two years ago, according to the petition, and Russell has failed to contribute to the support of the wife or child in the interim. Mrs. Russell charges also that he has repudiated the marriage, and said while she was in the hospital that he was not married to her. All this has caused her much mental anguish and embarrassment, she declares.

Her suit asks a complete divorce and permanent alimony for the support of her and the child. She claims Russell makes about $7 a day.

She is represented by Attorneys Smith and Grizzard.

TENNESSEE FIRM PAYS $5,000 FINE

Chicago, June 30.—(AP)—The second group of manufacturers to admit operation of a trust in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act today pleaded guilty here when 16 refrigerator manufacturers entered pleas of guilty before Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe. A few days ago a group of chair manufacturers also entered guilty pleas and were fined.

The firms pleading guilty today denied they were cognizant of wrongdoing. While they might have violated the letter of the Sherman act, they did not fix prices, they claimed. The 16 manufacturing plants today were fined from $2,000 to $5,000 each.

The refrigerator manufacturers are the second of three groups named in the indictment of 232 members of the alleged furniture trust. Fifty of 57 persons and firms engaged in chair-making recently pleaded guilty and were fined a total of $166,000. One hundred and ninety manufacturers and two associations officials engaged in the manufacture of bed room, dining room and living room furniture have yet to enter pleas.

Two refrigerator manufacturers refused to plead guilty today and may stand trial later.

tions had been completed for the establishment of a $2,500,000 revolving fund to assist in the reconstruction of property in the Santa Barbara earthquake zone.

Cotton declared that the San Francisco clearing house late today agreed to place $1,000,000 in the fund, Los Angeles $1,000,000 and the remaining $500,000 to be subscribed to by small southern California banks.

Majority Make Deposits.
An indication of the spirit that pervades the city was furnished by the statement of one of the bank presidents who said that of the hundreds who came to the temporary banking quarters amid the ruins today the great majority made deposits and only a few withdrew cash.

It was clean-up day in Santa Barbara. Firemen from Los Angeles swarmed over the twisted buildings removing dangerous overhangings of brick and stone; storekeepers returned to their places of business and began the task of getting rid of the wreckage and salvaging what could be used; housewives went to market as they had done before.

On the grimmer side of the picture the death toll mounted to ten when the body of R. M. Litchfield, wealthy Santa Barbara resident, was found under a pile of bricks on a State street corner. Earlier Hernandez Charis, injured Mexican, died at the Cottage hospital. This left the list of injured at 29 and hopes for the recovery of all were held out by the attending surgeons.

Temporary Building.
By nightfall the work of temporary rebuilding was virtually completed in the Santa Barbara Telephone company's plant, and an imminent resumption of local telephone service was promised.

The first broker's private wire to reopen for business was picked up late today and once again Santa Barbara had direct connection with the money market of the world.

Following tremors of dwindling tendency throughout the day, the people of the city, or the majority of them, made preparations to spend another night on their lawns. The confinement within four walls of a bed room still was considered undesirable in the light of recent happenings.

The water and sewage systems, never interrupted, are in good shape.

ASSOCIATED PRESS GIVES FIRST DIRECT NEWS OF DISASTER

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 30. (By the Associated Press.)—From a flimsy shack, eight by 14 feet "furnished" with five small empty packing cases and a make-believe table of discarded boards to which an Associated Press wire had been hooked hastily, the first direct news of Santa Barbara's disaster went out to the world shortly after noon yesterday.

This emergency headquarters, manned by Associated Press writers and telegraph operators, filed a steady stream of news on the seaside tumbler through the day and into the night.

When night fell a new problem faced them—what about light? For the fires had to be kept going so that those who read the morning papers comfortably between sips of coffee might know how a city of 31,000 had fared during and after one of the outstanding cataclysms of the Pacific coast. The obstacle of lack of light, due to the collapse of the electric power house, was surmounted by backing an automobile up to the door of the Associated Press "bureau" and stringing a wire with a tiny bulb attached from the machine's battery to the operating table.

While the Sheffield storage reservoir went out, the Gibraltar dam stood intact and although the pipe lines have been reduced, there is plenty of water for all.

The gas is still cut off. Electric power also is conspicuous by its absence, but it too, is looked for to stage a comeback within 24 hours. However, last night two of the main streets were lighted and tonight lights also are promised in the residential districts.

Supplies are coming in from outside cities but much bread is being turned out over wood fires.

The issuance of building permits has been suspended during the survey period which would conflict with the final plan of reconstruction.

Marines Arrive

Protective forces for the city tonight assumed a more military aspect with the arrival of a guard of United States marines and bluejackets under the command of Marine Captain J. F. Moriarty, of the Santa Diego base. Captain Moriarty's men established a radio communication immediately upon landing, replacing a complement of sailors from the battleship Arkansas, which recalled its men from shore duty at noon and sailed for San Pedro at 2 p. m. She is on a limited cruise with midshipmen.

It was understood at marine headquarters that four companies of marines were being held in readiness at the San Diego base awaiting orders to proceed to Santa Barbara for extended duty.

At a citizens' meeting late today, in addition to securing the services of San Francisco and Los Angeles engineers to inspect the wrecked buildings, it was agreed to suspend business on State street, the center of the quake-ridden area, for one week while inspection is in progress.

Acceptance of offers of aid from San Francisco and Los Angeles was voted by a representative gathering of the city council, chamber of commerce and clearing house association.

The following telegram was sent to the chambers of commerce of Los Angeles and San Francisco:

"Accept your offer of assistance. Send us today three or five superior structural engineers to act in advisory capacity to city government in an immediate survey for reconstruction of Santa Barbara."

Real Catastrophe.
Dr. Rexwald Brown, president of the chamber of commerce, and Herbert Nunn, city manager, signed the telegram on authority of the joint meeting.

Dr. Brown presided over the meeting. "We have suffered a real catastrophe," he said. "Earthquakes have almost annihilated our business district. During the war such cities as this today were seen by the scores. 'Doling and Red Cross canteen work has been taken care of. Our problems now are rehabilitation and reconstruction. We must meet them. The chamber of commerce, city council and clearing house association, outstanding leaders of the community, can take care of the reconstruction."

Two New Quakes

Two new earthquakes—one the most severe since the tumbler which shattered the city yesterday morning—rocked Santa Barbara between midnight and daybreak.

No new damage was reported in the overnight disturbances, but workmen digging in the ruins for possible unrecovered bodies were struck by falling bricks.

The tremors during the early hours came at 4:20 a. m. and at 5:54 a. m. The most severe quake came at 4:30.

The body of Mrs. Charles E. Perkins, of Burlington, Iowa, was recovered from the ruins of the Arlington hotel early today and efforts are being made to locate other possible victims of the disaster.

CAUSES OF QUAKE
CREATE DISCUSSION.
Los Angeles, June 30.—(AP)—Which of several faults known to exist in the region of Santa Barbara caused the destructive earthquake yesterday was the subject of speculation today among seismologists of southern California.

"The mountain range paralleling the coast and lying back of Santa Barbara is rising," said Ralph A. Arns, chairman of the southern California society of the Seismological Society of America. "From just what cause we do not know, but we know it is a growing range. In the course of great lapses of time, as the ranges rise, the strata breaks and great fractures or faults occur. Some of them ex-

Readjustment of the business and commercial districts and the financing of the reconstruction.

"It is a wonderful opportunity to build the type of a city we have been talking and dreaming of for years."

Filmsy Building Control.
"We have had very inadequate and filmsy building control. We need a construction engineer to assure the building of the best and finest city possible."

Dr. Brown told of offers by San Francisco and Los Angeles Chambers of Commerce to extend the aid. He said the aid needed was the most capable structural engineers these cities can furnish immediately.

"We want some one to come here to tell us what we are to do with the reconstruction of State street," he said.

The meeting then voted to authorize Dr. Brown and City Manager Nunn to accept the aid of the two coast cities.

The view that the Montana and California earthquakes are related, held by William Bowie, chief of the division of geodesy of the coast and geodetic survey at Washington, "The earthquake at Santa Barbara is the same old story, an ocean leakage," said Professor T. J. See, of the Mare Island observatory of San Francisco.

He expressed the belief that the disturbances in Montana had no connection with those in Santa Barbara and suggested that possibly a recent hot wave in southern California had something to do with the quake there.

Dr. G. S. Towley, of Stanford university, said that experts had discovered earth strain three years ago in the Santa Barbara area and had predicted quakes. These strains, they believed, had been gathering since the San Francisco quake.

There has been unwonted seismic activity in North America this year, about 25 quakes at various points from Alaska to Mexico have been recorded since January 1 at Fordham University, N. Y. The Rev. J. S. O'Connor, director of the seismograph, attributed them all to the same general unknown cause.

"A protracted period of seismic calm is always followed by a period of activity," he said.

Eastern seismographs recorded the Montana disturbances as more violent than the Santa Barbara quakes. "There has nothing to do with the comparative loss of life and property," said Professor O'Connor.

"Santa Barbara was close to the epicenter of the second disturbance, while the epicenter of the Montana shocks occurred in a sparsely settled area."

The cause of the Montana and California earthquakes lies at the bottom of the sea, explains Professor J. Paul Goode, of the department of geology of the University of Chicago. The bed of the Pacific ocean is sinking, is his opinion.

"The ocean water rushes in on top and makes the density at that point greater. Something must come up when the sea bed sinks. That is the earth's crust on the western flank of North and South America," he summarized his theory.

He takes it for granted both earthquakes were part of the same crushing action. Earthquakes will continue in the Pacific zone for centuries, he thinks.

The quakes in both Montana and California may be attributed to the resumption of volcanic activity in Nevada range, a peak in the Sierra Nevada range in the northwestern part of California, Brother G. E. Ruessel, St. Louis university seismographer, believes. The volcano has long been dormant, and was considered extinct.

Defiant in the face of disaster with a gripped their fair city on the Pacific's shores during the last 24 hours and left many of the beautiful homes and business blocks in ruins, the residents of Santa Barbara today began reconstruction with cheerful spirit of pioneers in a virgin land.

Up and down the 14 blocks of State street, the principal thoroughfare, which was laid waste yesterday, the sounds of industry held sway. The rehabilitation tune was that of giant, jagged walls crashed to the street by the wreckers to make way for the builders, the clatter and buzz of hammer and saw, and the roar of motor trucks coupled with the shouts of teamsters, carting away the debris.

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 30. (AP)—Jewels and bonds valued at $150,000, property of Mrs. Charles E. Perkins, of Burlington, Iowa, earthquake victim, were found intact in ruins of the Arlington hotel by Detective Lieutenants Carl Williams and Allen Baldridge, of Los Angeles. The detectives crawling in back of the pile of debris located Mrs. Perkins' trunk and extracted the treasure of gems.

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 30. (AP)—A graphic eye-witness story of the earthquake disaster here was related today by Lieutenant F. W. Stronach, of the Santa Barbara fire department.

"I was awakened by the first tremendous shock," he said, "and heard the tower of the central fire station crack above me. We rushed the equipment from the building. Just as we got to the street, the Carrillo hotel started to slide in."

"Just in great clouds rose from the ruined hotel building. Back of it were still greater clouds, ascending into the air from the center of the business section."

A sustained roaring was kept up during all the first heavy shocks, as one wall after another buckled and slid to the street in avalanches of debris.

We devoted our attention to the Carrillo hotel, which was crowded almost to the capacity of its 200 rooms. It is a five-story Spanish type building. Women and men were screaming. Their voices sounded tiny and shrill against the thunder.

"Evidently the interior stairways had given way. The elevators of course were useless. "We ran ladders to the upper windows of the hotel, and carried out as many as were unable to climb down by themselves."

Carry Out Women.
"A funny thing happened when one excited man, stark naked, jumped out on the top of a ladder, missed the rungs, and slid down to the streets, where he proceeded to run around in circles until one of the boys kidnapped him and took him into the fire house."

"We carried out a number of unconscious women, none of them apparently badly hurt. "About the time we had a number of women on the ladders, more shocks came. It was ticklish business hanging on to ex-

ANTI-SALOON BODY FORD FAILS TO BID SCORED BY LAMAR ON U. S. VESSELS

Washington, June 30.—(Special.)—Charging that the Ku Klux Klan is the outgrowth of the movement for national prohibition fostered by the Anti-Saloon league through the Protestant churches of the United States and "is the extra judicial instrumentality of prohibition enforcement as well as the instrumentality now employed by some of the protestant churches to combat the Catholic church," William H. Lamar, former assistant attorney general and also former solicitor of the postoffice department, declares in an open letter "to a southern senator" that the Anti-Saloon league maintains the greatest religious autocracy known through its control of protestant organizations.

Mr. Lamar, formerly of Georgia, still maintains a residence at Thomasville, as well as here in the capital.

Mr. Lamar's letter is a rigid defense of the Jeffersonian principles of democracy, separating politics and religion into distinct fields, which he fears is becoming a rare type of citizenship in the south.

League Jobs Good Ones.
Mr. Lamar asserts the policy of the Anti-Saloon league from the first has been to raise sums of money with which it has given lucrative employment to protestant ministers who were out of charges or whose charges afforded smaller remuneration than the Anti-Saloon league afforded them.

"Through this process," he said, "the protestant pulpits were converted for Anti-Saloon league purposes, by the ministers so employed, and later these pulpits were opened for address by Anti-Saloon league advocates who were not ordained ministers."

"The country is now in the control of protestant organizations, ecclesiastically as the Roman Catholic church ever controlled any country," the letter says. "This has been brought about almost entirely through the manipulation of the Anti-Saloon league, which furnishes the 'master minds' and directs these church forces. It also furnishes good paying jobs to its leaders and laymen."

It also furnishes religious fanaticism, unless it be Mohammedan, to which it bears a striking resemblance in its political operations.

"Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of this league, by reason of the fact that he is assumed to represent the wishes of most of our protestant people, exercises today a greater power over the destinies of this nation than any Catholic cardinal assigned to a European court ever did in the past."

Says Congress "Bossed."
Mr. Lamar charged that most members of congress respond "with alacrity to the whip and spur" of the Anti-Saloon league and the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church in all legislation. We have practically ceased to be a representative democracy and now are governed by leagues, blocs and minority organizations of all kinds, which are mostly organized and sustained through the protestant churches. What these elected representatives of the people seem to support, in all so-called moral measures, is what the protestant organizations of the country demand.

"In my view it would be foolish to direct an attack against the Ku Klux Klan, it being simply incidental to the conditions I have described—symptom, as it were, of these conditions. With these conditions removed, the Klan, with all its apparent power, would shrivel and die."

Link G. O. P. and Klan.
Mr. Lamar says the republican party "seems" to be the natural instrumentality through which those religious organizations operate, and adds that, "while the south appears to be practically under the control of the same influence, it all inures to the benefit of the republican party nationally in presidential elections."

"Through this protestant church influence in the south, as directed by the Anti-Saloon league, the democratic party today appears to be the 'harmful' element. The people of the states north of the Potomac river constitute the bulk of real Jeffersonian democracy today."

Mr. Lamar adds that the Anti-Saloon league is in effect but an adjunct of the republican party, which invariably receives its political support.

Columbus, Ohio, June 30.—(AP)—John G. Price, Columbus, grand exalted ruler of Elks, today sent the following telegram to Governor William Richardson, of California.

On behalf of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks permit me to express sympathy and concern for your people. I hope published reports are an exaggeration. You, of course, know we are willing to help, if outside aid is necessary. Please advise me."

Kilauea Observatory, Island of Hawaii, T. H. June 30.—(AP)—Director Thomas A. Jaggar, Jr., of the Kilauea observatory today said the Montana and Santa Barbara earthquakes prove the necessity for more and larger volcanological observatories which should be supported by companies specializing in earthquake insurance, which is important to persons located in earthquake zones.

Dwelling on the possibility of predicting earthquakes Professor Jaggar pointed out today that the Santa Barbara tremors were foretold some time ago by Professor A. C. Lawson, of the University of California.

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 30.—(AP)—Castle Rock, a shore line sentinel of Santa Barbara beach, that was just as familiar to residents and visitors as the old mission, was swept to the ocean bottom by yesterday's earthquake.

Santa Barbara, Cal., June 30.—(AP)—Today the only flag that flew throughout the earthquake chaos, the Stars and Stripes atop the American Legion building, dipped its glistering fold to the forces of reconstruction.

The legion citadel, condemned as dangerous, was razed by the fire department, but to the last old Glory remained on its gaunt staff, and settled slowly to earth amid the dust of crumbling walls.

Professor Raffaele Bendati, noted Italian seismologist of Faenza, Italy, who predicted the disastrous Japanese earthquake, also predicted the present earth shocks in California in an interview with the United News Sunday, when he said "a revival of seismic activity is imminent."

"The forthcoming period," he predicted, "will be one of the most intense of the year. It will begin with minor tremors followed by stronger ones on June 29-30."

Seismographs throughout the world will record violent shocks on July 5.

"The seismograph storm will attain its peak between July 14-16, with various manifestations, some of which certainly will be disastrous."

"Central Asia will be the scene of violent outbursts."

Washington, June 30.—(AP)—Bids from 20 individuals and companies today opened by the fleet corporation for sale of 200 shipping board vessels for scrapping, but the name of Henry Ford did not appear.

No explanation was available as to why Mr. Ford, who had indicated an intention of bidding, did not submit a tender, and Chairman O'Connor, of the shipping board, said he had received no communication from the manufacturer on the subject.

The bids were for varying numbers of the vessels under varying conditions and for varying periods of time. The entire 200 was received, that being from the Boston and Iron Metal company, of Baltimore, for a blanket sale at $1,370,000.

The Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company bid for 110 vessels, all in the St. James river, near Norfolk, the lowest bid being for a total of $400,000 to $600,000, according to varying terms.

The Columbia Shipyard, Inc., of Norfolk, Va., offered $2,000 each for 200 vessels, ranging from $3,100 to $4,000 each, according to varying terms.

The bids will be tabulated and analyzed but not acted upon until after the return from the Pacific coast late this week or early next of President Palmer, of the fleet corporation. Whether Henry Ford later will bid for vessels to operate in connection with his manufacturing business, Chairman O'Connor indicated was a question which probably would be answered soon.

DEFECTIVE POWER
HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR MINE BLAST

Raleigh, N. C., June 30.—The use of defective power and carelessness in placing the "safety" or "blast" were assigned as causes of the mine disaster at Coal Glen, N. C., in a report made public here today by Frank Grist, state chemist, after a preliminary investigation. The explosion, which occurred on May 27, resulted in the death of 53 men.

bruised about the body. Holland was badly shaken up and bruised, while the unidentified white man jumped from the car and fled. It is believed that he also was injured as his face appeared scratched and his clothing was torn.

Holland was said to have been speeding when the accident occurred and a case of reckless driving was made against him.

Boy Struck Down.
John Mitchell, 12, of 409 North Jackson street, was bruised early Tuesday night when he was struck down by an automobile driven by L. Van Staeren, of 174 Forrest avenue, on North Boulevard, near Forrest avenue.

Upon knocking the boy to the pavement, Staeren stopped his car immediately and carried the youth to the Georgia Baptist hospital.

Staeren reported the accident to M. L. Holcombe, night clerk in the office of the chief of police. No case was made.

Russell Owen, 9-year-old negro girl, of 16 Bishop street, received bruises and lacerations about the body when she was knocked down late Tuesday by an automobile driven by E. Hart, of 289 Waldo street, in Piedmont avenue, near Pine street, according to police.

Hart told Call Officers Goode and Bullard, who investigated, that the girl ran in front of his machine, the accident being unavoidable, but a case of reckless driving was made against him.

C. E. Smith, of 56 Bradley street, and C. E. Smith, of 157 Stewart avenue, were slightly bruised and shaken up Tuesday as the result of an automobile collision at the corner of Forsyth and Hunter streets.

J. W. Fincher, 42, of 137 Trinity place, Denver, Tuesday received fracture of the left arm and minor bruises about the body when he was struck by a truck in the driveway of the William Waddell Grocery company, at 354 Marietta street while leaning over to pick up a pocket knife he had dropped to the pavement.

He was carried to Grady hospital for treatment where physicians said it may be necessary to amputate the injured arm.

1 KILLED, 1 INJURED
AS CARS COLLIDE

Jessup, Ga., June 30.—One man was killed and another seriously injured, although he leaped from a surgeon's table and raced out of the hospital, in an automobile accident which occurred near here this morning.

Fred Brown, of Elsie, was killed and Fred Knight was injured. It is reported that Knight's car collided with an automobile driven by Mrs. Ernest Speed, of Needmore, Ga. Knight was driving the car and Brown, his friend, was a passenger. The Knight car was totally wrecked. One wheel was knocked off the other automobile.

The injured man, Knight, was taken to the local sanitarium and hurried into the operating room. Before the physicians could render aid he jumped from the table and ran from the hospital, declaring he would not have medical aid. He went to his home here.

Wesley Memorial Hospital To Open Free Infant Clinic For Children Under 12 Years

All Advantages of Great Hospital To Be Used for the Treatment of Children.

The Wesley Memorial hospital free clinic for infants and children will open July 10. This—the only free clinic of its kind in any Atlanta hospital—is entirely supported by the Wesley Memorial hospital.

It will take infants and children from birth to 12 years of age and treat them in every way where medical and surgical attention is required. The clinic will have the service of the Wesley Memorial hospital nurses, internists and house physicians and will be fully equipped. There will be a laboratory in connection with the clinic, equipped with X-ray machines and every device needed.

The Atlanta Junior league, which is concentrating on child welfare work, will work in conjunction with the clinic for children and the Good Samaritan gland clinic, the only clinic of its kind in the south which is 100 per cent charity.

The children from the special classes of the public schools will have the benefit of both of these institutions. These children, who from mental or physical reasons are so handicapped, will thus have the opportunity of becoming physically fit and be prepared to combat and withstand the conditions of life on the same footing as their more fortunate brothers and sisters.

The Good Samaritan gland clinic only treats cases of glandular disorders, so after thorough examination and treatment at the gland clinic, where they benefit through the skill and knowledge of 12 of Atlanta's foremost physicians, they will then have further treatment where medical and surgical aid is needed at the Wesley Memorial clinic.

Dr. W. W. Anderson is medical advisor of the Wesley Memorial clinic and will be supported by a staff of from 18 to 20 prominent baby specialists. The students of Emory Medical university will get practical training in the clinic.

Office hours for the doctors will be on Monday and Thursday afternoons at 1:30 o'clock.

Any child in need of treatment can be taken there and be assured of receiving the best attention.

SUIT FOR LIBEL
HINTED BY HOLDER

Mr. Slater, "but, of course, I have not given out any advance information as to my audit, either criticizing the chairman or exonerating him of blame."

Attack on Holder.

Mr. Anderson first attacked Chairman Holder's handling of the highway department when he suggested to Governor Walker that he revoke the commission of the chairman. This Governor Walker did, but after hearings in Bibb superior court and before the state supreme court, it was held that the governor did not have the authority for this action.

During the entire period during which the fight of Mr. Anderson to remove Chairman Holder has been on, the Macon man has issued frequent newspaper statements, in which he has reiterated his charges against the chairman, but they have never been heard in a court and the only evidence supporting them was contained in the preliminary report of the private auditing firm of C. R. Dawson & company, which contained affidavits from employees of the department charging that Mr. Holder had drawn advances on his salary at different times, but that he had later paid them back. The final report by Auditor Dawson did not substantiate his charge, however, making no further reference to Chairman Holder, except in the routine reports of salaries, expense accounts and other items.

Mentioned for Post.

Several prominent Georgians were mentioned in a recent gossip on Tuesday as possibilities for the vacancy created by Mr. Anderson's resignation. Among these were George Lanford, of Lyons, former state senator, and John R. Phillips, of Louisville, who was also a member of the senate last year.

Other names mentioned include those of Miller S. Bell, of Milledgeville, and Joe Gaston, of Butts county. Mr. Bell was manager of the Meade presidential primary campaign in Georgia, while Mr. Gaston was active in Governor Walker's first campaign for the governorship. Whoever is appointed will have to be a resident of the central part of the state, the state highway act specifying that the board shall consist of one member from each section of the state, the north, south and central.

Inter-Racial Group Will Back Charges Against Policemen

Citizens of the Peachtree-Seventh street neighborhood, supported by the committee on inter-racial relations, have filed formal complaint with Chief of Police Jett and the police committee against Motor-cyclists Officers Milan and Harbin, charging that they "beat up" Danne O'Neal, negro, and poured liquor into his wounds, last Saturday night, after he was arrested on charges of drunkenness, reckless driving and transporting whisky.

In reply, officers filed a statement with Acting Police Chief Jett stating that the negro attempted to run them down after twice colliding with an automobile and that when he was captured he attacked them with a knife and was struck two blows with the butt of a pistol, they said, in order to subdue him. They denied pouring whisky into his wounds.

The complaint may come before the police committee tonight but it is understood that the officers have the right to demand three full days' notice in order to prepare defenses to charges.

DEBT CONFERENCE

week and today, but it is admittedly a lengthy task.

Signor Alberti's plan to visit Rome served to recall that neither he nor Ambassador de Martino, titular head of the mission, has ever talked over the debt question with Premier Mussolini. The ambassador was ill when he was appointed to the post, and when he recovered the premier was ill. The ambassador, therefore, left for the United States with only meager instructions. Signor Alberti was in this country on personal business when Premier Mussolini decided to start funding conversations and appointed him a member of the commission. His visit home will make it possible for him to lay a definite account of the whole question as developed here before the premier and to receive such instructions and advice as the government desires to give.

U. S. Seems in No Haste.

Members of the American commission participating in the conversations meanwhile, appeared to be in no haste to draw up a funding agreement. The official view was that, while the treasury would like to see negotiations proceed uninterrupted, American officials were willing that the Italian government should be kept fully informed on every phase of the discussions and be satisfied that it was not entering into a settlement the success of which might be doubtful. Some observers, however, made the point that the reason for this government's willingness to proceed slowly was the effect an impasse might have on other debtor powers. The Italian negotiations have gone far enough now, in their opinion, to commit the Rome government to a funding policy, and it was suggested, therefore, that no harm would come from allowing time for negotiations to get under way with Belgium and perhaps France, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia before Italy actually concludes a settlement. These suggestions were received without comment at the treasury.

Terms Still Unmentioned.

In the conferences thus far, no reference has been made to funding terms, the conversations in all of the meetings having been officially described as being confined to outlining Italy's capacity to pay. Mr. Alberti went at length into that subject today, presenting masses of documentary evidence about conditions in Italy at this time. The American conferees also went into figures on Italy's fiscal prospects in the future, when the amortization of the debt will take place.

Under Secretary Winston, the debt commission secretary, stressed this phase in announcing the postponement of the negotiations. He reiterated that the treasury had no desire to insist on terms that would prove disastrous to Italy, but believed every angle of Italy's condition and the outlook should be studied before specific provisions of an agreement were drawn up. Unless that is the course pursued, it was said, the possibility of an impasse was great, and representatives of both governments were seeking to avoid such a situation.

would have brought him to the spot where he met with that fatal end.

Dutton's appearance on the stand in the morning session was productive of little. He declined to discuss the case, saying he would talk when time came for his trial. He identified an affidavit, he had signed, however, but asserted he was forced to sign it. Then the state produced its two sheriffs, Sheriff Camp, of Campbell county, where all three of the men were confined at one time, told the jury he had several times heard Dutton voluntarily say he had been one of the three who murdered Langston. Sheriff Starling Carpenter, of Coweta county, which also gave the three jail space for a time, said he heard Dutton on three occasions tell about the crime.

This town is the rendezvous of the curious—a great throng of farmers, plain townpeople and others who make it their business to see what is going on. Five hundred or more of them crammed into the little superior courtroom in the dilapidated old courthouse today to see the continuance of proceedings in the trial of Ora Whittle, who, with two others, is accused of having slain James P. Langston, a rural mail carrier, by beating him to a bloody pulp on a country road near Fayetteville in 1922.

Imagine 500 pushing, craning men, and a few women, trying to hear and see in a courtroom which never was meant to accommodate more than a hundred at the most. It is the "sea of faces." A thousand pair of eyes. A thousand pair of legs. They stand on the rude benches intended to be used for seats in a dignified court, but they are being used to stand on these days, for Fayetteville and its suburban neighbors want to hear and see all this affair that has built up about the head of Ora Whittle.

House Is Crowded.

Even the space inside the railing is crowded. The attorney and newspapermen scarcely have room in which to do their necessary work. Each sits cross-legged, suspendered, in a stuffy box, about which continually pass the witnesses, and the ever-present curious trying to gain better points of vantage. Behind Judge W. E. H. Seay, who is conducting the proceedings, is another row of necks whose owners have, perhaps the grandstand seats, since they can look directly at the witness, hear what he says, see the attorney and take note of the jury. The jury, a placid body of twelve men, sits in front of them.

The courtroom is so crowded that witnesses have difficulty in passing through. There are many delays while Sheriff Adams worms his 250 pounds of man through the perspiring multitude, passes down the steps and hauls up a new witness. The court got tired of that after the state rested around 2 o'clock this afternoon and ordered all the defense witnesses herded into the jury room back of the courtroom. It was pretty hot in there, but it could not have been a great deal hotter than it was in other parts of the courthouse, so no one complained about it.

Widow Is Spectator.

The defendant in this particular phase of the proceedings against the trio who are to be tried, is a scrawny little individual, dressed in ill-fitting clothing, and looking very much like he would be glad to run if anyone even suggested that he had taken part in a crime. He sits at the side of his attorney, solemnly staring at each witness as she or he defends or attacks him. His little wife sits at his side, across the counsel table from him, sipping at a glass of water.

They also show great interest in the conduct of the proceedings.

The state completed its case about 2 o'clock, after Sheriff Camp, of Campbell county, and the sheriff of Coweta county had declared without foundation the statement of Oscar Dutton.

Sheriff Camp declared he had heard Dutton freely tell of how the crime was committed, and said Dutton told him that the three really meant to kill Ab Davis, a produce dealer, who was believed to counsel table from him sits the widow of the man he is accused of attempting to kill. Her daughter sits nearby. They also show great interest in the conduct of the proceedings.

The defense character witnesses were a rambling lot, delving into their likes and dislikes of persons whose names have been connected with the defendants. The courtroom relished this, the spectators breaking into laughter when Mrs. Minnie Knowles, one of those called to attack the character of George Samuels, said she didn't have any use for the Walters. John Waller is one of those under indictment in connection with the murder.

Denies Kinship.

Mrs. Knowles' daughter, who is the divorced wife of George Samuels, who was one of the state's star witnesses, also expressed her contempt for the Walters and told the crowd that, although she was reckoned a cousin of John Waller, she didn't care to acknowledge the blood relationship.

ries near the city as often as they should be visited.

"However," he said, "inspectors have done fine work and we have ordered many dairy buildings condemned when found insanitary. In fact, the city department has ordered changes on some of the very farms visited by Mr. Saunders.

Improvements Cited.

"Fifty-eight new barns now have been built or are under construction and owners of many other dairies have made extensive improvements in order to come under the grade A classification. We have examined more than 210 dairy employees for typhoid fever and other diseases."

Mr. Saunders then went into detail regarding Monday's inspection which, he claims, shows very poor sanitary conditions in many downtown restaurants, soda fountains and clubs.

"If the people knew how things were in the kitchens of some of these eating places they would demand that the places be closed altogether. Most of the places were in deplorable condition."

The possibility of insanitary conditions in eating houses, as charged by Mr. Saunders, was explained by Dr. Kennedy by the fact that the inspector in the down-town section has been ill for a week.

Inspector Reported Ill.

"Since the middle of last week," he said, "there has been absolutely no inspection of those places as our inspector has been sick in bed during that time. We have to keep right after these people all the time to make them keep their places clean, and a week would give any kitchen plenty of time to become filthy."

At the meeting G. R. Sparks was elected unanimously as milk inspector to succeed J. W. Head, who resigned several weeks ago. Mr. Sparks was nominated by Dr. Kennedy.

The committee voted to accept an offer of $2,000 from T. O. Chastain and Arthur Brooks for the city disinfectant plant and two acres of land near it. Mr. Chastain and Mr. Brooks also offered to dispose of bodies of large animals such as horses and mules free. At present, the city maintains the plant in order to find means for disposition of such bodies.

After two names already had been placed in nomination the committee decided to defer election of a city smoke inspector until the next session. The nominees were A. W. Jones and A. E. Billings.

Robbers Loot Safe.

New York, June 30.—(AP)—Safe robbers today looted the safe of the Grand Douglas jewelry company in the Maiden Lane jewelry district of about $15,000 worth of raw gold and jewelry after skillfully chiseling out the combination, leaving behind more than $150,000 worth of gems in another safe on the floor above, which they failed to open.

Allied Parley To Consider Complaints From Chinese May Be Called by U. S. Soon

Tariff Revision To Be One of Many Knotty Problems Which Will Be Presented to Powers.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, June 30.—A general conference of the powers on China probably will be called soon by American Minister MacMurray, who is expected to arrive at his post and make his report to the state department. The new minister is reported in a United States dispatch from Tokio as favoring broadening of the Chinese tariff conference in October to cover the general questions of relations with foreigners which is causing frequent violence now. MacMurray is regarded as one of the foremost authorities on China and it is scarcely likely that he will be obliged to revise his opinion after looking over the situation. Furthermore, Secretary Kellogg's confidence in MacMurray's judgment is so great that the full backing of the state department will be available. Such a conference is regarded as necessary in fulfilling the terms of the promise made by the powers at the Washington arms conference. They agreed to call a conference to consider abolition of extra-territorial rights for foreigners in China, three months after the arms conference adjourned. But China was not prepared for the conference then and the United States, which is to take the initiative in issuing the call, has been unable to get the other nations to agree on a time. However, the present critical situation in China has revived the subject and it is expected here that a date will be announced in the near future.

Probabilities favor holding the conference at the same time the customs meeting is held in October, though that point is uncertain at this moment.

Tariff May Be Revised.
At the tariff conference an attempt will be made to bring the Chinese customs duties, always fixed by treaty with the powers, up to date. For years they have remained approximately at a level of 5 per cent, often slipping below. Many of the powers concede that China has a just grievance and there is a general disposition to raise the tariff to 12 or 15 per cent. Readjustments have been made occasionally, usually in the form of specific duties, but in most instances price levels have gone up so that the specific duties, figured on a basis of value rather than quantity, have shown heavy losses.

One big question before the conference will be the total abolition of likin, the petty local taxes imposed on goods passing through the provinces. In the past the likin has been a source of revenue for the provinces. It is agreed that a shipper might pay an additional tax of 15 per cent in lieu of likin, but now it is sought to establish a universal rule in place of this optional one.

But here is where the general Chinese situation comes back into the picture, because such an agreement for total abolition of petty provincial taxes implies control by a central government and this is something China has yet to achieve. It would do no good to sign a treaty with such a provision while the country still is at the mercy of Tsechuns, who are mostly lawless.

DRY CHIEF PLANS TO RUN IN OHIO
gubernatorial fight last November, when he was defeated by the dry candidate, and he dropped his plans after James A. White, Columbus lawyer, and former superintendent of the Ohio Anti-Saloon league, became a candidate.

The attitude of Senator Willis, republican, Ohio, who is known to desire reelection, toward the entry of Mr. Hayes into the campaign as governor in the same primary in which he must run, is not known definitely, but they are old friends and no opposition is expected from the senator.

Bureau Shakeup Planned.
Although his plans have not taken definite shape, it is said that Mr. Hayes expects to remain at his present post long enough to see the new enforcement machinery being organized by Assistant Secretary Andrews, of the treasury, fairly under way.

The new plan, scheduled to take effect August 1 with gradual changes as conditions permit, provides for the most radical reorganization of enforcement efforts since prohibition became effective. State lines will be abolished and control placed in 22 federal prohibition administrators scattered throughout the country in districts laid out according to federal judicial jurisdictions.

A report that Commissioner Hayes would resign or be retired was circulated a few weeks ago along with speculation as to what was contemplated by Mr. Andrews in plans for reorganization of the prohibition unit. The official treasury announcement of the new zoning system, however, stated that the functions of Washington headquarters would be conducted under the same officers, although their duties would be less administrative and more supervisory in character.

DEFENSE TO REST IN PEN CASE TODAY
were outstanding features of the Tuesday session.

In his testimony Fletcher flatly denied ever receiving one cent from any prisoner or of ever having granted any special assignment or special privilege to any prisoner for a valuable consideration.

Other witnesses introduced Tuesday were C. C. Tuten, member of the Savannah group of convicted bootleggers, serving sentences for violating the prohibition laws; Jack Redpath, negro convict; Dr. B. R. Lacy, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, Atlanta, a character witness for Fletcher; Eddie Donegan, former convict; E. G. Thompson, clerk of the Savannah city court, and Alex A. Lawrence, Savannah attorney, character witnesses for Willie Haar, and Willie Haar, another member of the Savannah group of bootleggers serving sentences for violating the prohibition laws.

Record Was Good.
Fletcher testified he had been in the federal prison service 21 years and up to the present no charge of any kind had ever been made against him. He said he had served in the Atlanta prison for 15 years as deputy warden. He stated that he had purchased $500,000 worth of stock in an ice plant at Miami, but up to the present had paid but $600 in cash on this stock.

"After serving more than 20 years as a prison official I had less than $5,000 in assets," Fletcher testified. "The money to pay counsel and other expenses of this trial I obtained from F. H. Duhey, former superintendent of prisons during the administration of President Woodrow Wilson."

Fletcher denied flatly that he had ever received one cent from Manie Kessler, Willie Haar, or for former Warden Sartain.

"I never in transaction with Willie Haar or any other prisoner received a loan," he testified. "Neither Haar nor Kessler paid me any Christmas present of $5,000 as has been stated in this trial. I never heard of any conversation to this trial of any arrangements under which Savannah prisoners were to pay $10,000 for special privilege."

Cash Offer Denied.
Fletcher also denied that an Atlanta business man had offered him $15,000 in cash for special privileges to be granted Haar's father. After finishing his testimony, Fletcher was cross-examined by District Attorney Clint Hager and this cross-examination was a progress when Judge Ervin adjourned court until 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Under the cross-examination Fletcher stated that he had not given special privileges to Sartain, Kessler, or the Haars. He related details of his inspection of quarters used by these men and told of ordering the removal of an electric fan found in their quarters which were on the second floor of the isolation ward. He said Kessler, George Remus, Sweeney and the Haars occupied these quarters. He said they were allowed to use an ice box but said this privilege also was accorded other prisoners. He explained the nature of outside and inside passes and said of outside passes besides the group of wealthy bootleggers were also given these passes.

Attorney Howard then introduced Fletcher's bank books and bank statements as documentary evidence in the case.

Dodge Accused.
Defense lawyers called former Warden Sartain to the stand and during an argument over the admissibility of his testimony the jury was taken out of the courtroom. While the jury was out Attorney William Sweeney Howard outlined to Judge Ervin what he expected to show in the testimony of Sartain. He declared that he would show that six weeks ago Edward J. Sweeney, former convict now assisting the prosecution in the case, went to Columbus, Ohio, and told Sartain that he had authority from the district attorney to offer him a light sentence in his conviction of bribery charges, provided he would come to Atlanta and testify against Fletcher.

Attorney Howard then said he would show further that Franklin P. Dodge, federal agent of the department of justice assisting the prosecution, went to Columbus about two weeks ago. Attorney Howard said Dodge made an offer to Sartain to give him a light sentence in exchange for the release of James N. Linton, former assistant attorney general of the United States, and Henry Linton, his brother. In this offer Dodge is said to have offered to procure light sentences for Sartain and Riehl and to let them serve them in any prison in the United States they might designate if they would come to Atlanta and testify against Fletcher.

Former Warden Sartain then testified in connection with the alleged loan made him by Willie Haar. He admitted he had borrowed $5,000 from Haar and offered Haar a note for the money which Haar declined to receive, stating that an investigation was under way and it would not look right for him to have such a note.

District Attorney Hager produced the prison rules and asked Sartain if he did not know it was against the rules to accept a loan from prisoners.

"Yes, sir, I was fool enough to let Haar help me," Sartain testified.

Riehl Denies Guilt.
Lawrence Riehl, friend of Sartain, testified that he had received $5,000 from a Dr. Williams of Savannah which was sent him as payment of a similar sum owed him by Sartain. He denied ever receiving any money from any prisoner in the federal penitentiary either for himself or for Sartain.

Chester C. Tuten, one of the Savannah group of convicted bootleggers, testified that he gave Graham Baughn, of Savannah, $5,000 and Edward J. Sweeney, $3,000 for which he was to get an easy appointment in the prison. He said about a week after he gave the money to Baughn he was assigned to the place as chauffeur. He said he had never had any dealing of any kind involving money with Fletcher.

FORCES OF MOORS TAKE OFFENSIVE AGAINST FRENCH

Fez, French Morocco, June 30.—(AP) Intelligence received from all sources shows that the Moors are developing an offensive in force against the French in the eastern and central sections. The official communiqué announcing this says:

"The enemy's pressure in the east is increasing in the direction of Malla, and there have been clashes with the French forces occupying the heights north of that point. The enemy is also concentrating at Ain Zohra and Nouguiten, while large numbers of Rifians are filtering through the lines in Dhar Centom, but are being held in check by friendly tribesmen."

"On Monday French airplanes bombed the headquarters of Abd-El-Krim's brother at Bouadel."

HIGHWAY BILL READ IN HOUSE

Tuesday night that he expected to have his audit ready for presentation to the department and the legislation either Wednesday or Thursday. Mr. Slate said that the audit had been completed and typed, but that his record for highway purposes shall be the proof-reading of the 150-odd typewritten pages which make up the report. "Owing to the importance of the statistics in the report, every effort is being made to guard against typographical errors and when any such are found in the typing the page affected is being rewritten."

The highway bill introduced Tuesday by Representative Beck would completely abolish the present highway board and the entire organization of the department. In place of the present department, it provides for one highway commissioner at a salary of $4,000 per year, and provides that money for highway purposes shall be divided among the counties according to their state aid mileage roads. This division is to be regardless of the amount of mileage completed, both completed highways and those not constructed being counted for the division of the money. The building of the roads and their maintenance is left to the counties and the bill states that a "completed road" shall be construed as a sand, clay or topsoil road.

Representative Doyal, of Floyd, introduced a bill to allow banks to conduct real estate and insurance business and Representative Westbrook, of Dougherty, is the author of a measure to reorganize the military department of the state.

Among bills calling for appropriations on Tuesday was one by Doyal, of Floyd, to appropriate $10,000 for the Georgia School for the Deaf at Cave Spring; one to provide for payment of back pensions due to Confederate veterans; one for the use of the Georgia State College for Women at Valdosta and one to appropriate $12,000 for the Bowden State Normal and Industrial college.

School Fund Urged

Representative Gohrke introduced a bill to provide for an equalization fund for the common schools of the state, but the bill does not specify the amount of the fund.

Representative Stanford, of Lowndes, is author of a bill which would provide for two shifts of firemen in cities of more than 7,500 population. It is not expected now that the committee appointments will be ready for announcement in either house before next Monday. It is one of the biggest problems of the state for the presiding officers to come as close as possible to meeting the wishes of all members in regard to committee appointments and, despite work almost night and day since the session began, it was known that the committee were not all completed by Tuesday night.

ANNEXATION QUESTION COMES UP AGAIN TODAY

A new effort to obtain favorable councilmanic action on a petition giving citizens of College Park, Hapeville and East Point permission to vote on the question of being annexed by Atlanta, will be started this afternoon when the petition will be given a public hearing before the charter revision committee of city council.

The committee recommended several weeks ago that the legislature authorize a referendum on the question but council adopted an adverse minority report and the entire project was killed. However, many council members are said to have undergone a change of mind since that time and it is expected that the measure will be passed when presented to council Monday.

If the referendum is held and residents of all three cities vote to come into Atlanta, about 20,000 inhabitants and approximately $15,000,000 in taxable property will be added to Atlanta.

The charter revision committee also will consider a measure extending the city limits to 200 feet beyond any street or road which now is on the line. Such a move, it is pointed out, would be of great assistance in paving and making other public improvements, as property now outside the limits would be assessed.

Purchase of Ansley Park Home as Executive Mansion Is Favored by Committee

State Can Purchase Ansley Property for Sum of $86,000 on Time Payment Plan.

Purchase of the present residence of Governor Clifford Walker, in Ansley Park, for a permanent governor's mansion, is recommended in the report of the special legislative committee, created at the session of 1924, which will be presented to both houses of the legislature today.

The property recommended for purchase can be bought for $86,000, including an additional three acres in the rear of the property and immediately adjacent. The report recommends that the state buy the property in terms which would not make any year's payment greater than the annual income derived from the lease of the old mansion site, where the Henry Grady hotel now stands. Inasmuch as the state gets $20,000 per year of the old site, this would mean that the new mansion would be paid for in not over five years.

Governor Walker, advised of the recommendations of the committee on Tuesday afternoon said that, of course, whatever decision should finally be made would not affect him or his family, inasmuch as the property in question is already leased to the state, for use as a mansion, for the next two years. However, he stated that he thought the recommendation a very wise one, inasmuch as the house was a beautiful one, very comfortable and desirable in every way, and well suited to the purposes of a governor's mansion. The governor pointed out that at the price quoted on the property, the state could realize more than the purchase price at any time in the future it might wish to sell the property.

The special committee which recommends the purchase consisted of Senators G. W. Lanford, chairman, and C. D. Robinson and Representatives B. J. Fowler, E. B. Dyles, C. D. Dooly, and Miss Jessie Kempton of Fulton.

In its report the committee states that it has made an exhaustive study of location and prices on available sites located within the county of Fulton, and through individual investigation and through findings heard without limit the merits and demerits of places available.

The committee states it has considered not only availability, value and other factors of their recommendations, but also the financial condition of the state.

"We have carefully guarded against arriving at any conclusion until we would allow the state to pay more than an individual for the same property," the report states, and adds that the resale value of all properties considered has been carefully studied.

The report concludes by stating that the property is under option by the Ansley Park Civic league and negotiations for purchase may be concluded through J. Hope Tigner, secretary and treasurer of the league.

RESIDENCE SECTION IN SANTA BARBARA ESCAPES QUAKES

The residence section of Santa Barbara, Calif., did not suffer greatly from damage due to the earthquake shocks which demolished part of the business section, according to a telegram received in Atlanta Tuesday by D. Asbury, of the Southern Pacific railway. The message was signed by T. M. Schumacher, vice president in charge of traffic with offices in Chicago.

The message follows:
"Full reports from our officers indicate earthquake's force affected only restricted area in Santa Barbara and vicinity. Property damage confined almost wholly to business section, residence quarter little affected. No serious damage to company property, tunnels and bridges all sound. Line reopened last night and service on our coast line will be normal today. Every assistance being rendered people in Santa Barbara to quickly restore normal conditions."

The special committee which recommends the purchase consisted of Senators G. W. Lanford, chairman, and C. D. Robinson and Representatives B. J. Fowler, E. B. Dyles, C. D. Dooly, and Miss Jessie Kempton of Fulton.

Palldressers who have been chosen from a group of men who were associated with Judge Calhoun in the city courts over which he presided for many years are: Eugene R. Hines, Roy Dorsey, Lowry Arnold, Ed Hill, John A. Hynds and Henry Newman.

Leading members of the Atlanta Bar and the Atlanta Lawyers' club will form a part of a large honorary escort.

Superior courts in Atlanta, recorders courts and the city criminal courts will suspend during the day as a tribute and attaches of these courts will attend the final services together, with a legion of friends of the late judge.

In addition to his widow he is survived by four sons, Dr. Abner Calhoun, of Boston, Mass.; John Calhoun, of Dallas, Texas; and James and Andrew Calhoun, of Atlanta.

BIRTHS TOP DEATHS IN FULTON COUNTY

The "stock" led "the reaper" in Fulton county—exclusive of Atlanta—during the months of April, May and June, according to a quarterly report issued Tuesday by Lieutenant T. E. Lockhart, county health officer. There were 176 births and 125 deaths.

Health conditions in the county are excellent and the county is free of any epidemic of contagious diseases. During the last quarter there were but six cases of scarlet fever, five of typhoid, three of smallpox and 16 influenza cases in the county exclusive of Atlanta, the report shows.

3 NAMES LINKED WITH JUDGESHIP

Judge Garland Watkins, of Fulton county juvenile court; Ed Stephens, assistant solicitor general of Fulton county, and Jesse M. Wood, assistant city attorney, Tuesday were mentioned as possible successors to the late Judge Andrew Calhoun, of the criminal division of city court.

Although practically no effort had been made by any aspirants for the appointment because Judge Calhoun's funeral will not be held until this morning, it was understood that friends of the three mentioned above are ready to launch a fight for the office.

It is considered probable that Governor Walker will make the appointment within the next day or so, realizing the importance of naming someone to carry on the work of the court without delay.

Judge Calhoun was elected for a four-year term last fall, and the appointment will be to fill the unexpired term. His term began January 1, 1925, but his successor will have to run for his place in the general election to be held in November, 1928, according to a state law governing the judiciary, which requires that an appointee filling an unexpired term must offer in the next general election.

National Teachers Hear Defense of Senate Rule By Former Indiana Solon

Woman To Head Association Next Year; Federation in Chicago Hears Labor Union Leader.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 30.—Two of Indiana's illustrious sons, both well known in international literary circles, held the stage at tonight's session of the National Education Association convention, the closing event of the second day of the 43rd annual meeting of the teachers.

After Meredith Nicholson, himself a popular novelist, sketched for the delegates "some of the arresting figures in the Hoosier literary pantheon," Albert J. Beveridge, author, statesman, and former United States senator, defended the provisions of the senate, characterizing proposed rules to prevent unlimited debate as "an assault upon the theory and nature of American institutions."

Advocating against cloture by a temporary majority, Mr. Beveridge, argued that such a course would destroy the deliberative function of the senate and annihilate the "reason for its existence," making it "automatically a mere annex to the house of representatives."

Theorizing on the reason Indiana has produced so many literary figures, Mr. Nicholson declared story telling was the common form of entertainment in the favor of and around the country stores in the early days.

It became certain today that the National Education Association leadership for the next year will be assumed by a woman with the nomination of candidates for the presidency. Two women, Miss Mary McSkimming of Massachusetts, and Miss Cornelia Adair of Virginia, are nominated for the office to succeed Jesse S. Newton.

of Denver. The election will be held Thursday.

Evolution Law Assailed.
A resolution deploring the "unlighted legislative dictatorship" and which denounced the Tennessee evolution law, was presented. Delegates said it would probably pass.

"In certain states of the union," said the resolution, "teaching as a constructive social function has been menaced and may be menaced again by misguided legislative authority that fears to trust the intelligence, the public spirit and the devotion to duty of the profession whose obligation it is, and whose desire it is, to serve the people by training children for intelligent citizenship."

"The reactionary Lusk school laws in the state of New York, abolished in 1921 after a trial of two years, the Green law of California proposed in 1921 and dealing with the matter of controlling the opinion of teachers, as well as numerous bills in several other states that have been designed to censor the writing and the teaching of history in the schools—all reflect the same unfortunate suspicion and distrust of educational intelligence which the Tennessee anti-evolution law conveys."

LABOR LEADER URGES HIGHER PAY FOR TEACHERS.

Chicago, June 30.—(AP)—An appeal for further organization of labor, especially among teachers and other educators, was made by George W. Perkins, vice president of the union labor department of the American Federation of Labor, in an address before the American Federation of Teachers convention today.

"Defiant laborers as 'all who give service,'" he said, "must work and men of brains contribute more to the progress of civilization than physical labor," he said. "Teachers are doing more for our children than any other class of workers. If you were paid

AMUNDSEN STEAMER MAKES SLOW RETURN

Trondheim, Norway, June 30.—(AP)—The owners of the steamer Alfr W. Selmer, on which Roald Amundsen and members of his North Pole expedition, are returning to Norway from Spitzbergen, today received word that the vessel at 3 o'clock this morning passed Lofoten off the northeast coast of Norway without stopping. The steamer is heavily loaded and is expected to make slow progress and it is doubtful whether she will be able to reach Oslo by Saturday.

At various towns from Tromsø, toward Trondheim, at which the steamer Alfr W. Selmer, a long distance, the people were eager to learn whether the Selmer would call and give the citizens a chance to welcome Amundsen and his party. Some municipalities sent wireless dispatches to Amundsen about the Selmer begging him to permit them to welcome him, but Amundsen has declined to decline with thanks and regrets.

In the water off Tromsø, navigated Monday, the Selmer's boatloads of people went out with hands to celebrate the home-coming of the North Pole expedition. Some of the boats accompanied the Selmer a long distance down the fjord, as she is keeping within the coastal skerries. Everywhere the local newspapers are filled with praise for the expedition, and Amundsen's fame. A special march has been composed in his honor and his name has been given to various articles on sale in shop windows.

The wages you are worth, you would receive $10,000 a year rather than the $1,200 or $1,800 most of you get."

Amundsen, a tall, white-haired man, declared Dr. H. R. Linville, president of the teachers' union of New York, in his report before the convention, "The present course of study is antiquated, and children universally hate it."

Dr. Linville outlined methods of reform, among them the establishment of experimental schools using the creative methods of teaching. Under this method children are instructed along the lines for which they have particular talent and in which they have an interest.

FLORIDA OFFICER FOUND DESERTER FROM U. S. NAVY

St. Petersburg, Fla., June 30.—(AP)—Apprehending R. P. Latimer, local motorcycle patrolman, will be taken to court today by a deputy sheriff, son of William L. Latimer, of this city, as a deserter from the United States navy. Pinellas county deputy sheriff took the officer into custody this morning. He was taken to the county jail at Clearwater and government officials were notified of his arrest.

Sheriff Roy Booth received papers several days ago describing Latimer as a deserter from the navy and arrested the officer when he was unable to produce discharge papers. Latimer was said to have enlisted for four years in the navy after serving 14 months returned home. He returned to St. Petersburg, in 1921, shortly after the big storm here.

The alleged deserter was a member of the county traffic force for several months last year and then joined the city police department here. Police officials said he was a good officer.

Mrs. Ruby R. Miller Admitted To Practice In Washington Court

Mrs. Miller was born in Alabama, but has spent most of her life at Macon, where she was graduated from Mercer university and was admitted to the bar in November, 1921.

She was admitted to practice in the highest court of the District on motion of John Paul Earnest, chairman of the examining committee.

TOBACCO IN BROOKS IN CURING PROCESS

Quitman, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—All over Brooks county the smoke is curling upward through the tobacco barns, which is accepted as the best skywriting that has ever happened in south Georgia, as it means the return of prosperity to scores of farmers.

Experts who have carefully surveyed the condition of the tobacco are unanimous in declaring that it is absolutely safe and the only tragedy that could possibly happen would either be rank stupidity in curing or an accidental fire that might consume the harvest.

There are approximately 3,000 acres in tobacco in Brooks county alone, which is three times the acreage of last season, and if indications are as full of fruition as they are of promise Brooks county will receive from her tobacco crop practically as much revenue as she was accustomed to receive from an average cotton crop before the advent of the boll weevil.

The conditions are ideal for cotton at the present time despite the boll weevil, and although the acreage is not as large as last year, it is believed the money received from the present crop will almost double last year's receipts.

WEST VIRGINIA POWER PLANT RAZED BY FIRE

Huntington, W. Va., June 30.—(AP)—Fire early tonight destroyed the power plant, five warehouses and a box factory of the Boldt Glass company, together with several thousand crates of finished bottles. The fire burned several hours before being brought under control. Damage, it was said, was heavy.

Girl, 13, Called To Mother's Aid In Divorce Suit

New York, June 30.—(AP)—The defense in the Symington divorce suit closed today after Dorothea Webber, 13, daughter of Mrs. Ida May Symington by a previous marriage, had been called as the last witness to refute charges of infidelity made against his wealthy manufacturer and club man.

The girl, who was calm during her examination, presented a contrast to her mother, who for the first time since the trial began, broke down at the child told of incidents in their Morristown, N. J., home.

Corroborating her mother's testimony, Dorothea told of a raid on the home last winter led by "Daddy Symington," who with two other men broke down doors and lifted Mrs. Symington's desk of letters. She was certain that John Wallace Young, Symington's counsel, was in the party, but the attorney, taking the stand in rebuttal, denied this.

Dorothea also confirmed her mother's version of an Easter party when it was alleged that Maurice Fatio, named as correspondent, visited Mrs. Symington's bedroom in light attire. She described the ejection of herself and her mother from the house after an all-night siege by Symington and others in which four beds were turned over and the water turned off.

Rebuttal witnesses for Symington said that Symington in his trips to Baltimore spent his time at his office. His wife had complained that he neglected her to go to Baltimore to hunt.

Savannah Morning News Builds Assembly Room For Many Organizations

Savannah, Ga., June 30.—(Special.)—A unique institutional feature of a big daily newspaper plant is the plant of The Savannah Morning News, which has been in operation as a paper for 75 years this spring, not counting predecessors which existed as far back as 1782.

In the addition of four stories, which will practically double the present seven-story building of the News, the second floor will be a town hall of modern appointments for the use of the public. The seating capacity will be nearly 400, with conference rooms and committee rooms and women's space for the use of the public, with a stage and dressing room and drop curtain and simple sets of scenery.

A whole kitchenette with a big refrigerator room will be provided so that luncheons may be prepared and served. More than 100 organizations of women and men of the city and county and the Savannah zone region have been cordially invited to make use of the hall for their meetings.

A branch of the public library has just been announced, authorized by the library board, to be located in the building adjoining the town hall.

The hall and the remainder of the building will be original in design and embellishment, and built along the best modern line, gathered from a score of cities, the newspaper additions being especially adapted for best newspaper work as to arrangement, etc.

Kansas City Doctor Invents New Truss

New Discovery Heals Rupture Without An Operation.

A new discovery which, experts agree, has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of the well-known Hernia Specialist, Dr. Andrews, 1228 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and heals a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of The Constitution who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of this free offer. Write him today. WILBUR ON VACATION VISITS IN CHICAGO

Chicago, June 30.—(AP)—Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy, stopped here today en route to San Francisco, Cal., to pay his respects to Charles G. Dawes, the vice president, and to inspect the Great Lakes Naval station.

He conferred in New York yesterday with Senator Frederick Hale, of Maine, chairman of the senate naval committee, who just had completed a trip to the Pacific coast naval stations and to the Hawaiian Islands. The most needed improvement discovered by Senator Hale was the dredging of the entrance to Pearl Harbor, a $2,000,000 project.

The secretary displayed keen interest in the latest reports from the California earthquake zone, and expressed relief when informed the latest death list totaled nine. He said the navy department naturally would do all possible to relieve the situation.

He will join the cruising United States midshipmen at San Francisco July 12 and go to Astoria, Ore., with them. From San Diego, Cal., he will leave on the transport Henderson July 27, with several members of the house naval committee for a visit to Panama and possibly Haiti, reaching Hampton Roads August 17.

While ostensibly on a vacation, Secretary Wilbur will take advantage of the cruise on the Henderson to study the five volumes of the aircraft investigation report, and the approximately 1,500 pages of the report on the proposed Alameda, Cal., naval base.

Regarding aircraft for naval defense, Secretary Wilbur said it was the conclusion of naval officers, in which he concurred, that aircraft is of increasing importance as an auxiliary, particularly in aiding the fire of the great guns.

Editors Fight Duel.

Rome, June 30.—(AP)—Tullio Giordana, editor of The Tribuna, and Giovanni Amendola, editor of The Mondo, fought a duel today because of an article in The Mondo which Giordana considered offensive. Physicians stopped the duel when Giordana was wounded on the forehead.

Protest Permit For Klan Parade In Washington

Washington, June 30.—(Special.)—Three additional letters, including one from Representative Emanuel Celler, of New York, have been received by the District commissioners protesting against the issuance of the permit for the Klu Klux Klan parade in Washington on August 8.

In replying to the letter from Representative Celler the city heads again stated that they knew of no reason why the permit should not have been issued, provided the Klan observes the regulations governing such parades.

The second letter was from the Medico-Chirurgical society, representing colored, and the other was signed American association and dated from Los Angeles, Cal.

Asks Withdrawal.
Representative Celler requested the commissioners to withdraw the permit, expressing it as his belief that the parade is an endeavor to recruit the ranks of the Klan. The representative further declares that the capital was selected because it would result in greater publicity.

The Medico-Chirurgical society requested that the permit be revoked "in our own name and in that of more than 100,000 negroes, citizens of the District of Columbia."

In replying to the letter of Representative Celler, the commissioners quoted the regulation under which parades are authorized, in which it is stipulated that marchers must not be masked. The city heads then added:

Conditions Made.
"You will note the conditions of this regulation which the police department will enforce. The commissioners know of no reason why this organization should not be permitted to parade the same as other organizations, provided they observe the laws and regulations covering such parades. It has been the custom of many years standing to grant such permits to all kinds of bona fide societies and non-sectarian, which are not known to be seditious or disorganizing, and the commissioners know of no instance of disorder occasioned in the District of Columbia by this organization."

SHEPHERD FREED OF ALL CHARGES

Chicago, June 30.—(AP)—William Darling Shepherd, acquitted last week of the murder by typhoid inoculation of his millionaire ward, William Nelson McClintock, today was freed of all criminal charges.

The grand jury voted a "no bill" on the charge that he had also slain Mrs. Emma Nelson McClintock, young McClintock's mother. Despite the fact that a chemist's physician reported the finding of poison in Mrs. McClintock's body when it was exhumed 16 years after burial, doctors who attended her said they found no traces of poison.

Charles C. Faiman, who said he gave Shepherd typhoid germs to act as a chemist's physician, reported yesterday after having been indicted with Shepherd so that there are now no criminal charges pending against anyone connected with the case.

Tomorrow the first trial in what promises to be a long drawn out litigation to break young McClintock's will, will come when an effort will be made by Shepherd's attorneys to probate the instrument. The will drawn by Shepherd leaves most of the $1,000,000 estate to Shepherd except for an $8,000 annuity to Miss Isabelle Pope, McClintock's fiancée. Ten cousins of McClintock and Miss Pope are contesting the probate.

THREE SWIFT KICKS IS COURT'S DECREE

Knoxville, Tenn., June 30.—Sterned justice was bootied out in municipal court today when Judge Robert P. Williams, after finding a youth on a charge of drunkenness, was asked by the mother of the boy, who came along to see that justice was meted out, to do something more than just fine the boy. Whereupon the judge took the youth in to his chambers and in the presence of the mother administered additional justice—three swift kicks.

Senator Heflin Assails Mellon On Tax Position

Washington, June 30.—(AP)—The administration's attitude toward the issuance of tax exempt securities was condemned in a statement today by Senator Heflin, democrat, of Alabama, in which he declared that "Secretary Mellon, the friend and mouthpiece of the big financiers of America, who own practically all of the tax exempt securities now in existence, has declared against permitting any more to come into competition with those now in the hands of a large and powerful group of American financiers."

The imposition of federal taxes upon securities issued in the future by states, counties, cities and towns would, in his judgment, be an untenable discrimination and would materially impair the value of such securities.

"No sane man would think for a moment of permitting the federal government to levy a tax upon the electric light plant, water works, paved streets and public buildings," said the statement, "nor upon public roads, bridges and public buildings. . . . yet that is precisely what Mr. Mellon and his republican friends are proposing to do."

Senator Heflin also issued a statement announcing his opposition to the suggestion that the department of agriculture change its crop reporting system so as to give the estimated yield per acre of cotton instead of condition figures, as at present. He declared the present plan is preferable, and said that "guess work as to the prospective yield per acre," would result from such a change.

Borotra and LaCoste Go To Wimbledon Semi-Finals

Wimbledon, June 30.—(AP)—Three Frenchmen and an Australian will fight out the semi-final battles in the all-England's men's singles championship at Wimbledon. The Frenchmen are Jean Borotra, the champion, Rene Lacoste, and H. J. Cochet. The Australian is J. O. Anderson.

The French colors fluttered gaily at the masthead in every match in which Frenchmen played today. This was particularly true in the match between Cochet and John Hennessey, the last American competitor in the championships. Hennessey looked like a world beater for two sets but he went to pieces and lost the next three and the match to the Frenchman. The score was 7-9, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3, 6-0.

Barclay, the Tasmanian, and Jacob, of India, could do nothing with the super play of Borotra and Lacoste. Borotra won from Barclay, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, 6-8, 6-0, 6-1.

In the fourth big match Anderson did not have to use any of his reserve to beat the young Oxford student from India, C. Fisher, winning in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4. The only real upset of the day was the defeat of Hennessey.

Charles S. Garland, of Pittsburg, and Lawrence B. Rice, of Boston, fell before the superior court strategy and experience of the Italian expert, Baron de Morpurgo, and the Hungarian, Baron Bela Von Kehring in the men's doubles. The score was 6-8, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2.

In the women's doubles Mlle. Lenglen and Miss Elizabeth Ryan advanced another step by eliminating Miss E. Boyd and Mrs. H. S. Uiz, 6-0, 6-2.

An effort to bring the play and country closer together is being made by the British Broadcasting company. The hum of the bee, the chirp of the cricket, the crow of the rooster, etc., are to be put on for the benefit of city dwellers.

WALLER SIGNS FOR JULY 4 RACES

C. J. Waller, of Blakely, Ga., is the latest entrant for the automobile race which will be held next Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock on the Lakewood track in the annual Fourth of July independence celebration race program.

Waller has been racing in south Georgia and Florida for the past three years and was a season winner with Bob Linton last year and also in 1923. He will pilot his 16-valve Dodge speedster, which has been recently worked over and is in perfect shape at present. Waller will arrive in Atlanta either Thursday or Friday and will begin to tune up his motor in practice rounds Friday afternoon and Saturday morning.

The auto race entry list now numbers 10 of the best drivers in Georgia and Florida and the competition July 4 should be much more than ever before. The class of cars entered is above the average and there will be only southern drivers entered. The races are insured some fast and thrilling rides next Saturday afternoon.

Walter Cutcliff, of Macon, piloting a Marmon special, entered his name in the entry list recently and should be in Atlanta by Thursday night ready for action in practice rounds Friday. Cutcliff raced here last year and also started in the spring races on May 2, but did not finish due to a broken and burned-out connecting rod.

Cutcliff led the chase of six drivers for more than three miles with his gray Marmon but someone in the rush failed to see that he had enough oil in the motor and the race on the fifth lap was forced to the pits and never entered the races again.

Stecher Declines $60,000 Purse

St. Louis, June 30.—(AP)—Joe Stecher, claimant to the heavyweight wrestling championship, has declined the $60,000 purse offered by Promoter Tom Packard of St. Louis, for a bout with Ed (Strangler) Lewis, another title claimant. Stecher said yesterday he had no intention of granting Lewis a match in the near future. Stecher said Lewis, during the four years he held the undisputed title, ignored his challenges.

Cold boiled ham, pickles and nut meats put through the chopper and mixed well make a new and delicious ham sandwich.

Ruth Returns to Yankee Lineup for Boston Game

Boston, June 30.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, Yankee slugger, returned to the game today when the Yankees lined up against the Boston Red Sox at Fenway Park. An X-ray examination of his right ankle, made at the Boston City hospital this morning revealed no bones broken by the foot ball that struck his ankle several days ago.

Ruth's appearance in the Yankee outfield sets at rest persistent rumors that the slugger is through for the season. His ankle bothers him, but he was more than anxious to "try today," Manager Huggins said. In his first time at bat after Combs had singled, Ruth hit into a double play.

BOOMER LEADS HERMAN STOPS JOSE LOMBARDO

Glen Eagles, Scotland, June 30.—(AP)—Aubrey Boomer, of the St. Cloud Country club, near Paris, with a score of 69, led the field of more than 100 professional golfers today in the first qualifying round for the annual Glen Eagles thousand guineas tournament. Boomer's score broke the course record. Abe Mitchell, English professional, was only one stroke behind Boomer.

Joe Kirkwood, the only American entrant in the Glen Eagles tournament, took 80. He must do much better tomorrow to survive, for from the scores turned in today there is little hope for any entrant with an aggregate above 153 being among the 32 selected for the match play later in the week.

George Duncan, who won the tournament last year, is in an even more precarious position as he took 81 today. Macdonald Smith at the last moment decided not to enter the competition.

A 36-hole match between Jim Barnes, the professional from the United States who won the British open last week, and Abe Mitchell, for an attractive purse has been arranged to be played over the St. Albans course, just outside the London suburban area. They will not meet, however, until after the professionals tournament at Leeds next week.

HERMAN STOPS JOSE LOMBARDO

New York, June 30.—(AP)—Babe Herman, California featherweight, scored a technical knockout over Jose Lombardo, of Panama, in the final round of a 10-round match at Coney Island tonight.

Floored by a terrific right in the tenth, Lombardo rose at the count of nine but he staggered uncertainly along the ropes and the referee stepped between the contestants. Lombardo fought a plucky fight. After winning the first round by clever use of his left, the Panamanian continued to force the fight up to the seventh round when Herman began to solve his crouch by meeting his rushes with a straight right to the jaw. He split Lombardo's mouth in one of the early rounds and staggered him repeatedly in the later rounds. Each man entered the ring at 127 pounds.

Panama scored in the ten-round semi-final, however, when King Solomon took a heavyweight decision from the veteran Newark boxer, Sailor Masted.

To keep paint and varnish brushes in good condition wrap in a piece of paper and hang in a small, deep vessel of oil, letting the brush descend into the oil up to the wrapping cord. To prevent the new brush from shedding or shrinking turn its bristles up and pour into it a spoonful of good varnish. Keep it in that position until dry.

BOARD BARS KEARNS FROM SEEING BOUTS

New York, June 30.—(AP)—The stage athletic commission today threw down the gauntlet to Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey and Mickey Walker, when it refused his application for admittance to the Italian hospital fund matches at the Polo grounds Thursday in any capacity.

This is the first official action the commission has taken to force Kearns to answer the challenges flung at Dempsey's crown by Harry Wills and Tommy Gibbons, his most persistent challengers. Kearns applied for a second license today in order to enable him to sit in Walker's corner when the latter meets Harry Greb in a 15-round middleweight title match Thursday night.

Kearns' trouble with the New York board started when he ignored official challenges of Dempsey by Wills and Gibbons. Due to the fact that he is not a licensed manager in this state, the commission could not suspend him so he was placed, together with Dempsey, on the "unfavorable" list.

He attended the meeting of the commission this morning, but because he failed to adhere to the commission's ruling to send in his card, he was refused a hearing. Kearns said he had agreed to "cover" the fights for a local paper but Commissioner Farley ruled that he could not "change his colors overnight," and would not be admitted to the grounds Thursday.

Kearns would not commit himself today regarding the commission's action, but he appeared certain that a peaceful way out of the difficulty would be reached before Thursday.

Later Kearns outlined his position in the trouble with the commission. "It seems to be a matter of offended dignity on the part of the commission," he said, "because of my letter to them when they decided we had to fight Wills."

"I have retracted the part of that letter, which they thought objectionable and I am ready to sign Dempsey

Tuesday Game Rained Out; Krehmyer Is Still Playing Second With Boss on Bench

Birmingham, Ala., June 30.—(Special)—Frank Woodward and Jim Bradshaw will face "Pug" Cavet and Jim Bagby in the double bill Wednesday afternoon at Rickwood, word from the dens of the managerial geniuses of the Barons and Crackers asserted Tuesday night. The opening battle is to start at 2:15 o'clock and last until nightfall, if history does repeat as the smart boys avow.

Birmingham had its first real rain in several weeks Tuesday to cause postponement of the second game of the series with the Crackers. There wasn't a chance to play on the "wood lot" because the dampness was so thick the balls would have looked like mud pies one made when he was enjoying kid days. The ozone was so thick it couldn't be cut with a Bowie knife.

Colonel Bert Niehoff is not looking for another double bill such as he experienced on his last trip to the magic metropolis. Bert and his boys dropped a grueling twin bout to the Barons. In the second event of the last double-header, the Barons came from behind to overtake and beat the Crackers, dragging them from the top of the standing. But with the locals unable to clout them when there are men on bases leads the visiting chief to view Wednesday's battle with much glee.

No changes in the lineups are contemplated by either manager. The same clubs to enter the field for the first game Monday are slated to do their baseball stuff in the twin affair, barring all accidents and change of mind before the gong sounds calling them to labor. Manager Niehoff, who has a bad finger, announced he would be out of the lineup for several days yet. Krehmyer is holding down the second station in the absence of his boss.

Principal interest in the double bill centers in the first appearance of Frank Woodward, recently signed twirler, who once played for the White Sox and quit organized baseball because he was sent to New Haven in the Eastern circuit. He has just been reinstated and is eligible to give his best to Manager Doherty and the fans. Woodward will probably work in the first game, with Bradshaw doing duty in the nightcap. Both Woodward and Bradshaw are right-handers.

nothing of a proposed match between Dempsey and Gene Tunney being arranged by Floyd Fitzsimmons for his arena at Michigan City, Ind.

The commission also decided to give Edouard Mascart, French featherweight champion, a "temporary benefit of the doubt" in regard to his action in failing to fulfill his contract, to meet Babe Herman at Coney Island tonight.

Sammy Mandell, of Rockford, Ill., who was suspended for 30 days for fouling Jimmy Goodrich, of Buffalo, in the lightweight elimination tournament, was reinstated.

Many Fashionable Weddings, Close June Social Calendar

Weddings of unusual social importance brought to a close the month of June and occupied the attention of society Tuesday during the morning, afternoon and evening, when fashionable gatherings assembled to witness these impressive ceremonies.

In the morning the marriage of Miss Margaret Vaughan and Ensign George Balfour Gellie, of New York, took place at 11:30 o'clock at Sacred Heart church.

Another morning wedding was that of Miss Alice McElhinney and Thomas A. Lynch, Jr., which also took place at Sacred Heart church. The marriage of Miss Mary Jane McGinnis and Homer Carter, formerly of Texas, took place at the home of the bride's parents on Ponce de Leon avenue at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

In the evening the marriage of Miss Donna Capple Stone and Thresher Ames Rippey, Jr., was a brilliant event at 8:30 o'clock at "Paradise," the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fenn Orleton Stone in Druid Hills.

Another evening wedding was that of Miss Hazel Lee Tuggle and Walter E. Crew, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Paul Lester Tuggle, in Inman Park, at 8:30 o'clock.

The marriage of Miss Annie Elizabeth Mitchell and John Hanna Hooten took place at 6 o'clock in the evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lane Mitchell, on Penn avenue.

Stone-Rippey Wedding Is Brilliant Social Event.

Characterized by lavish beauty and elegance and of wide social interest was the marriage of Miss Donna Capple Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fenn Orleton Stone, and Thresher Ames Rippey, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thresher Ames Rippey, Sr., of Los Angeles, Cal., which was solemnized Tuesday evening 7:30 o'clock, at "Paradise," the home of the bride's parents, in Druid Hills.

The marriage service, which was solemnized in the Italian garden on the beautiful grounds surrounding the home, by the Rev. Asbury Jones, pastor of the Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church, was witnessed by a large assemblage of guests.

During the assembling of the guests a beautiful musical program was rendered by the "Griffith Sextet of Harpists," which included Mrs. Mary Griffith, Mrs. J. N. Keelin, Jr., Miss Ruth Allen, Miss Keitha Paxton, and Miss Mary Minkz Moore.

They were accompanied by violinists and cello from Enrico Leide's orchestra. The beautiful numbers played were "Melody" by Parkhurst; "In Time of Roses" by Reichardt; "Deus Chansens Sans Paroles" by Dubez; "To Spring," by Hahn; "Sun Set Land" by "Ave Maria" by Gounod; "At Dawning," by Charles Wakefield Cadman; "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacobs Bond; "Bacchante" from "Tales of Hoffmann" arranged by Seidel; "Angelus" by Reine; "Procession" by March; "The Heart of the Sweet Voice" from Samson and Delilah; was softly played. Mrs. San Bowden Johnson sang "Until," "Because" and "At Dawning."

Handsome Decorations.
Exquisite in every appointment were the decorations throughout the home. Palms and smilax were used with a profusion of garden flowers and lilies. In the dining room the table was covered with a Venetian point lace cloth. Gracing the center of the table was a large gold basket of garden flowers, on either side of which were Dresden candelabra holding white tapers, tied with tulle. Festooned from the crystal chandelier were garlands of smilax and flaring tulle. In the breakfast room was placed the wedding cake, which was four white tiers, artistically embossed and surmounted by emblem of love.

The ushers were Robert C. Alston, George Denton, of Boston; Henry Morgan, Frederick J. Paxton, Henry Quillian and E. A. Wilson-Lawrence. Passing through the drawing room the wedding procession entered an aisle formed of arches of smilax and festoons of flowers, with miniature electric lights twinkling and shedding a bewitching light among the garlands of green. This aisle divided into two separate aisles, leading into the sunken garden, where there was an improvised altar, arranged in front of the marble pagoda. Large white columns entwined with foliage and flowers were placed at intervals, and on each column was an urn filled with flowers, foliage and miniature electric lights.

On either side of the altar were large cathedral candelabra holding burning tapers. Suspended in the center of the garden was a large shower hanging basket, while on the outer wall surrounding the garden were Lantia palms and blue and pink hydrangeas. At the back of the altar, forming a half circle, were the harps, with the sextet of lady harpists, who wore gowns made of chiffon in the pastel shades and beaded in crystal beads and rhinestones.

Wedding Attendants.
The bridesmaids and groomsmen entered in alternate pairs, and met at the altar. First to enter were Miss Beatrice Kirby, of Somerville, N. J., and Miss Sara Thompson, of Dallas, Texas. Their gowns were of green chiffon. They were met by Emory Cooke, of Atlanta, and John T. Cochran, Jr., of Fulton, Miss. Next came Miss Josephine McKeeher, of Cleveland, Ohio, a cousin of the bride and Miss Marie Kirby, of Somerville, N. J. Their gowns were of pink chiffon. They were met by O. J. Efield, Jr., of Boston, Mass., and Esmond Brady, of Atlanta. Miss Joyce Godfrey, of Jonesville, Mich., a cousin of the bride, and Miss Eugenia Litchfield, of Litchfield, Mass., a cousin of the groom, followed, their gowns being of blue and white. They were met by William Parker, of Atlanta, and John Stalon, Jr., of Atlanta. All of the bridesmaids' gowns were designed alike. They carried garden baskets filled with Dresden flowers and tied with satin ribbons to match their gowns.

The matrons of honor, Mrs. George Denton, of Boston, Mass., and Mrs. Frederick Stock, of Hillsdale, Mich., entered together. Their gowns were exquisite creations of orchid-colored chiffon veiling satin, embroidered in crystal beads and rhinestones. A soft train hung from the shoulders and they carried arm bouquets made in the cascade beaded shower effect of roses, orchids and lilies of the valley tied with silver ribbons.

The maid of honor, Miss Zetta Rippey, of Los Angeles, Cal., a sister of the groom, entered alone, wearing a beautiful gown of shaded yellow chiffon the color shading from a pale yellow to a burnt orange. She carried a shorter arm bouquet of blue hydrangeas and lilies of the valley, tied with yellow tulle and silver ribbon.

Preceding the bride came the dainty flower girls, little Eugenia Stow and little Lucia Bellinger, of Lakemont, Ga. They wore white chiffon dresses, shimmering with ribbons, lace and dainty handkerchiefs. They carried baskets of flowers and scattered rose petals before the bride.

Radiant Bride.
The bride entered with her father and was met by the groom and his bridesmaids. Stanton Rippey, of Los Angeles, Cal., a brother of the groom. The exquisite bridal robe of shimmering white satin and rose point lace was particularly becoming to the bride's stately loveliness. The gown was fashioned on straight lines. The yoke, panel front, and bodice inserted in skirt were of rose point lace, embroidered in pearls and rhinestones. Her court train was made of hands of satin and tulle, embroidered in crystal beads and pearls. Her veil was of real lace and was a gift sent to the bride from Venice. It fell in long misty folds over her train, and was confined to her hair with a crown of orange blossoms and real lace. She carried a bridal bouquet of roses and orchids, showered with valley lilies, and tied with white tulle.

Master Jack Lewis, of Birmingham, Ala., the little cousin of the bride, was her train-bearer. He wore a white satin suit.

At Fresco Reception.
A beautiful al fresco reception and dance followed the ceremony. Mrs. Stone, the bride's mother, wore an exquisite gown of orchid-colored georgette, embroidered in beads of contrasting shades and rhinestones. She wore a corsage bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley, tied with silver ribbon.

Mrs. Thresher A. Rippey, of California, mother of the groom, wore a beautiful gown of blue satin crepe embroidered in silver and rose beads, with a tulle bow on the side. Her corsage bouquet was of orchids and valley lilies.

Mrs. Frederick E. Litchfield, of Boston, wore an imported gown of handsome cream-colored fillet lace over chiffon of the same color.

Mrs. William Kirby, of Somerville, N. J., wore a beige gown fashioned of an old Spanish mantilla clamped with silver to form a design.

The bottom of the gown was beaded with blue fox. Mrs. Harry Goodfrey, of Jonesville, Mich., was gown in sea green chiffon, veiling pink satin.

Mrs. E. F. Lockwood, of Cincinnati, wore a blue crepe creation, satin braided in crystal and French blue, cinnabar, was charming in a gown of peach-colored georgette, trimmed in pearl and crystal beads.

Mrs. Albert P. Strietmann, of Cincinnati, wore a gown of pink satin trimmed with cream lace.

Mrs. Sutton was gown in gold crepe heavily beaded and Mrs. Malone was lovely in flame georgette. They wore shoulder corsages of pink roses.

Mrs. Paul Lester Tuggle, mother of the bride, wore a cream lace dress.

Capital City Roof Is Lovely Scene of Dinner-Dance

The regular Tuesday evening dance on the delightfully cool roof of the Capital City club was an enjoyable affair of last night. The tables were attractive with artistic arrangements of garden flowers and were placed on the edge of the dance floor.

Dr. and Mrs. George Cook were hosts to a group of friends including Mr. and Mrs. Julian Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Harrington, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Artley and William Akers. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Wardlaw entertained a party of friends, and many other congenial groups gathered to enjoy the cool breeze on the moonlit roof.

cinnabar, wore a gown of a delicate apricot hue, with a corsage of sweet peas.

Mrs. William Thompson, of Dallas, Texas, was gown in a flesh-colored satin combined with metal cloth, with overdraperies of black lace and georgette.

Mrs. B. E. Ligon, of Cleveland, Ohio, wore a gown of silver lace, veiling blue duchess satin, and a Milange lace scarf.

The gown worn by Mrs. William A. Rawlings, of Washington, was gold lace over white satin, trimmed with long black silk tassels which hung from one shoulder.

Mrs. George Litchfield's gown was of rose crepe embroidered in silver and rose beads of a deeper shade.

Mrs. William H. Albers, of Cincinnati, wore a gown of light green imported gown trimmed with sequins.

Mrs. George M. Lewis, of Birmingham, cousin of the bride, wore white crepe trimmed in pink orchid georgette and adorned with a large pink rose at waistline.

Bride's Table.
The bride's table, which was arranged in the sunken garden, was covered with white satin and caught at the outer edge with festoons of smilax and tulle. The fountain in the center, was surrounded by flowers and ferns, and underneath with varicolored electric lights. Entirely around the inner edge was a band of flowers and showered from this in cascade beaded effect was a deep fringe of beaded flowers. Twelve handkerchiefs, trimmed with tulle and lilies of the valley and twelve miniature vases filled with orchids and lilies of the valley decorated the table.

Following the reception Mr. Rippey and his bride left for a wedding trip in their Lincoln-Judkins car, the gift of the bride's parents. They will be gone about two months, part of the time being spent at the home of the groom's uncle on New Found lake in New Hampshire.

The bride's traveling dress was of oyster white frost crepe trimmed with a three-tiered jabot of white pleated crepe down the front, and gold and black buttons. The coat was of black crepe lined with white and adorned with a blocked border of satin and trimmed with gold and black buttons.

Miss Tuggle Weds Walter Emmett Crew.
An event of interest to a host of friends throughout the state was the marriage of Miss Hazel Lee Tuggle to Walter Emmett Crew, which was solemnized Tuesday evening, June 30, at 8:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother in Inman Park.

Dr. P. C. McConnell, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives before an improvised altar of statuary forming a background for floor vases and baskets filled with white gladioli. Cathedral candelabras with burning tapers were placed on either side, shedding a soft radiance over the wedding party. Quantities of summer flowers, southern smilax and ferns in wall vases were used throughout the home. In the dining room the color scheme of pink and white was effectively carried out.

A nuptial musical program was rendered by Mrs. Edward Durham at the piano, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Tarleton on the violin and on the cello by Mrs. Victor Taylor. Mrs. J. T. Patillo sang "At Dawning" and "God Touched the Rose," accompanied by Miss Marion Gaines, who also played a piano solo. Lohengrin's wedding march was played to announce the approach of the bride's party and during the ceremony "To a Wild Rose" was softly played.

Bridal Party.
The first to enter were the bridesmaids, Miss Jessie Drew, sister of the groom, and Miss Elizabeth Cooper, who were met at the foot of the stairway by the groomsmen, Claude G. Smith and Clyde M. Fortson. The bridesmaids wore lovely gowns of Georgette made with basque waists and full skirts trimmed with lace and French flowers. Miss Crew's beautiful costume was ashes of rose over pink, while Miss Cooper wore lovely in Nile green. They carried arm bouquets of Ophelia roses and pastel sweet peas tied with tulle the shade of their gowns.

Mrs. Charlton Reed Roberts, the matron of honor, entered next wearing a lovely gown of yellow georgette shaded into deep orange over a combination of pink satin and heavily beaded with rhinestones. She carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses showered with sweet peas and tied with gold tulle.

The maid of honor, Miss Dorothy Moody, entered alone. She was lovely in orchid georgette made over satin and cream lace and beaded in rhinestones. Her lowers were Ophelia roses showered with sweet peas and tied with orchid tulle.

Little Dorothy Malone, of Miami, Fla., acted as flower girl and wore a dainty frock of yellow georgette trimmed in lace and tiny rosebuds. She carried a basket of pink roses and swainsons.

Lovely Bride.
The bride entered with her mother, Mrs. Paul Lester Tuggle, who gave her in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Reed Culver. The bride wore the tulle in her wedding gown of white georgette beaded in crystals and veiling satin. The dress was a straight model with bateau neck. The skirt fashioned with deep gogets of the same material and outlined with crystals. A court train of satin was held to the shoulders with a beautiful pearl and rhinestone band. The soft tulle veil was fastened to her hair by a bandeau of orange blossoms ending with sprays at either side.

A beautiful bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies showered with white sweet peas completed her costume. The bride's only ornament was a beautiful platinum bar pin set with diamonds and sapphires, the gift of the groom.

After the ceremony the guests were entertained at an informal reception. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. John L. Sutton, Mrs. Pierce S. Malone and Mrs. M. W. Agnew, of Miami, Fla.

Mrs. Agnew was gown in pink satin trimmed with cream lace.

Mrs. Sutton was gown in gold crepe heavily beaded and Mrs. Malone was lovely in flame georgette. They wore shoulder corsages of pink roses.

Mrs. Paul Lester Tuggle, mother of the bride, wore a cream lace dress.

THE HAWK

By DANE COLLIDGE

INSTALLMENT XI.

ANITA SAYS FAIRWELL.

Anita turned and stamped her foot as the hawk stood before her. He felt her sudden anger like a blow.

"O, now, Miss Anita," he protested. "It's no use to talk," she said. "I came up here to warn you because I don't want you to be killed. I drove day and night, to get here before they did—and now you're going in, anyway. You won't turn your back on Hooten because he saved you those steers—you'd rather turn your back on me. O, I'm sick and tired of this whole murdering business and I'm going away, that's all."

She untied her team and stepped up into the back of the hawk and the hawk stood staring at her.

"Aren't you ever coming back?" he asked. "Coming back?" she echoed. "What is there to come back for? Do you think I like this life? Do you think I enjoy driving around with—him, and having the neighbors all hate me? And now you're going in there to turn murder on yourself? That's why I'm going away!"

"No, ma'am," corrected the hawk in his gentle southern voice. "I hope you won't call me a murderer. I may kill a man, though I've never done that yet, but it will be because it is necessary, and right."

"I don't want you to do it," she man in the outfit—I don't care for deputies or nobody!"

He slapped his gun menacingly and rode in on the deputy, who held up his hand for peace.

"Are you speaking for yourself, or for all these gentlemen?" he asked. "You understand—you're opposing the law."

"I'm speaking for myself," replied the hawk, "and these boys can speak for themselves."

"We're going in!" shouted the settlers in a chorus.

"Well, if you go in there," warned the deputy, "there's a posse in the hills, and they'll kill the last one of you—that's all!"

"Let 'em kill," laughed the hawk. "That's a game that two can play at. And I'll just take that gun, Mistuh Man. Now you ride along ahead of me and if you lead us into an ambush you'll get the first bullet—right here."

He jabbed the muzzle of the pistol into the deputy's back and despite his loud remonstrances drove him on. The rest of the settlers followed, immensely heartened by the encounter and the advantage to which Crabtree had turned it.

They led the way into the creek bed, where the mountain cottonwoods and alders grew rank beneath the lowering pines, and following the well-trodden path they advanced for half a mile until they came to the mouth of a dry wash. Riding out behind its curb they traveled east toward the Red Wall, which at this place had broken down in enormous fragments, and after scrambling up over waterfalls and around boulders of pudding stone, they came out on top of the wall. Here for the first time the wonderful hawk and rider looked out over the tilted table land whose walls they had seen so often from afar. It was a bare and shaly mesa with walls on both sides, extending in buttes and lunettes far to the south; and over its sandstone top they strung out in a long line, spurring hard to keep up with Cayvee. Listening and cursing by turns, Hooten whipped his horse along the rough trail until, coming to the rim, he looked down over the edge and reached back to jerk out his rifle.

Clark Elects to Fight.

Leaving their cattle to mill and bellow under the care of two or three day herders, Cayvee Clark's reeking gunmen drew together in a knot, looking up at the wall as they talked; and from the rimrock above them the rustlers bawled out their numbers—over 50 men. Then, having shown their full strength, they descended to the gateway, where they killed a stray heft and made camp. But out on a point, where they could scan the whole basin and yet keep in sight of their camp, the hawk and Cayvee Hooten and the leaders of the rustlers sat waiting for the gunmen's next move.

The basin inside the wall was bare of trees and brush except for a sparse growth along the creek, and for miles up and down there was nothing but grassy meadows and sagebrush slopes, rising up to the wooded Big Horns.

Huge gorges, deep down into the everlasting hills, led down from the sparse covered summit, and from the mouth of each a tiny stream flowed out, to join

Beaver creek and go rippling through the gate. Farther north they could see the thickets of cottonwood and alder through which they had threaded their way at dawn, and while the cowboys still argued, a band of ten horsemen appeared, riding out of the wooded creek bed.

"That's the passel of killers that was waitin' to ambush us!" cried

Cayvee. "Hooten with a jerk of the thumb."

He blinked his red eyes and craned his neck to watch, and as the ten men came nearer his lips began to work as he recognized the man that he hated.

"That's him, the 'ell hound," he laughed out at last, "and we've got 'im where we want 'im. He killed poor Cub, but that ain't the last of it—all 'lask is one crack at 'im, boys."

"You'll get it," promised the Hawk.

"Unless he weakens and gives up the cattle."

They waited, and at last a lone horseman rode towards the gateway, holding a white flag above his head.

"Take a shot at 'im!" snarled

Hooten, "throw some dirt in his eye—we don't want to talk with the jasper."

The minute you go to talkin' with Old Cheaters, you're gone for—hell skin you every time."

"No, let's see what he's got to say," decided the Hawk at last. "This may be a regular officer."

"They're all hired killers!" spoke up Cayvee. "I reckon I ought to know. Didn't they shoot Cub and Bill and

"He's stopped!" exclaimed Dull Knife with a whoop. "Hey! What you want?" he shouted.

The horseman looked up and waved his flag again, and Dull Knife rose up and beckoned.

"Come on," he bellowed in his big, mountain voice, "come up where we can get a good look at you." But the messenger was wary and after watching him a while the Hawk jumped up impatiently.

"I'm going out to see him," he announced.

"He's liable to shoot you!" objected Dull Knife.

"DON'T DRESS UP WHEN AWAY FROM HOME AS NOBODY KNOWS ME AND I DON'T DRESS UP AT HOME BECAUSE EVERYBODY KNOWS ME."

"Now here," said the deputy sheriff, "you're up against the law, so there's no use getting ugly. Every man of us is deputized, and we're rounding up stolen stock—I don't see how you can object to that."

"I own the N.A. brand," stated

Crabtree, "and the man never lived that can say I ever stole a cow. But you've been down there and rounded up my cattle. Now I'm going down this road and get those cattle back if I have to kill you and every gun ner you're against the law, boys, and you'd better go back peaceful."

"I never heard of Sheriff Grimes," answered the deputy, "but it makes no difference, now. I know who you are—you're one of those murdering dogs that killed Thad Wilson. Now you get out of my way before I put a bullet through you, you lowdown hired killer."

"Now here," said the deputy sheriff, "you're up against the law, so
